Japanese Insist On Apology

. . . From United States

An Ominous Lull Grips Europe As Attention Of World Shifts for Moment To Far East

(By the Associated Press.)

Japan will not be satisfied with anything less than a United States apology, authoritative circles in Shanghai declared tonight, as a result of an "incident" involving the treatment of Japanese gendarmes arrested by U. S. marines July 7.

The seriousness of the dispute has been aggravated, it was said, now that the Japanese have invoked the honor of their army.

Three thousand Japanese residents of Shanghai, at a protest mass meeting, urged Japanese military authorities to "demand the disarming of United States marines" unless the marines apologize for the "mistreatment."

American interest in the Orient was further sharpened—amid an ominous lull in the European war—as Japan selected a new premier to carry out a policy of foreign expansion.

New Complications.

New complications arose, too, in Berlin, where authorized nazis said the United States, following its expressed desire of keeping world trade lanes open, should "condemn" the British blockade against Germany and Italy.

Reports that Adolf Hitler is preparing a "last chance" offer to Britain—presumably a "surrender or be destroyed" ultimatum as heralded by the fascist Editor Virginio Gayda — were strengthened with the scheduled departure of Italy's Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano for Berlin.

Count Ciano, due in Berlin Friday, is expected to confer with

FARLEY'S DEAL DEFINITE NOW

Cabinet Member to Take Over Yankees After Two Months.

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—Postmaster-General and National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley will take over the world's champion New York Yankees about two months hence.

Confirmation of the sale of the club to a syndicate headed by Farley came this afternoon from H. Garrison Silleck, Jr., one of the executors of the estate of the late Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the team.

Formal Transfer Delayed.

However, Silleck said, because of the complex nature of the contracts involved, it will be at least two months before the sale is consummated.

Silleck was forthright in his confirmation which dispelled the aura of mystery concerning Farley's future plans. His confirmation came while Farley awaited in Chicago the placing of his name before the democratic national convention for the presidency.

Silleck did not himself mention a syndicate. In fact, he said that so far as he knows Farley has no backer. However, the purchase price is $4,000,000, the terms of sale being a down payment of $1,500,000 cash with the remainder in the form of a mortgage.

Ambassador Daniels Main Speaker; Nebraskans For Roosevelt

BY JAMES E. LAWRENCE.

(Special Correspondence.)

CHICAGO, July 17—A near-capacity crowd of more than 200 friends of the late William Jennings Bryan filled the Louis Fourteenth room of the Sherman hotel Wednesday morning and heard a distinguished group of speakers pay tribute to the great commoner.

It was the most impressive Bryan breakfast since that event became a part of the ritual of democratic national conventions. They came from far and wide. Scattered among the breakfasters were political leaders from Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Indiana, California, Illinois, New York, and a dozen other states.

The very lovely daughter of the late Norman Mack, one of Mr. Bryan's close friends, was there. Senators and congressmen were as thick at the speakers' table and at the smaller tables as Lincoln was taking it on the chin Wednesday afternoon, and under the collar. At 2:30 the airport weather bureau reported its highest mark of the season —105. It was 102 at the city bureau, which was 1 degree below the mark of 103 on June 18.

Nebraska NYA Gets $311,908

. . . For 1940-41 Period

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—The National Youth administration allocated today $26,240,281 to finance NYA student work during 1940-41. Officials said the allocations would furnish part time work for about 500,000 needy students between 16 and 24, inclusive to enable them to continue their education.

Secondary school students will earn $3 to $6 a month; college undergraduates, $10 to $20, and graduate students, $10 to $30. Allocations by states (first figure for school work program, second for college and graduate work program) include: Iowa, $184,588 and $319,815; Nebraska, $137,353 and $174,555; South Dakota, $154,790 and $70,875.

PLATFORM DRAFTING DELAYED

. . . Fight on Foreign Plank

Pepper Asks Pledge For 'Full Allied Aid Short of War' And No Yielding To Appeasement

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—Final drafting of a plank on foreign policy tangled the democratic platform committee in renewed controversy today and snarled plans for the convention program.

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, convention chairman, said upon leaving a committee session that agreement had been reached to recess this afternoon's scheduled convention session until 7 p. m., C. S. T.

The platform had been scheduled to go before the 1 p. m. session, but the committee was so tied upon the war plank that a final draft was considered impossible of attainment until much later in the day.

Pepper's Demand.

Barkley declined to discuss events in the committee but it was learned that Senator Claude Pepper of Florida had started a determined fight to force inclusion in the foreign policy declaration of a pledge for "full aid short of war" to Great Britain.

As the group met to consider the platform draft completed by a subcommittee last night and known to include a war plank satisfactory to non-interventionists, Pepper arrived with the announcement:

"We have no intention of surrendering unless there is substantial compliance with what we want."

Earlier the Floridian, a member of the full resolutions group although he was left off the drafting subcommittee, had said only that the draft contained "two obvious deficiencies."

These, he declared, were failure to include an "aid short of war"

'Draft Roosevelt' Clamor Swells . . .

A PLATFORM DELAY STALLS CONVENTION

CONVENTION DEMONSTRATES FOR ROOSEVELT

After a statement by Senator Alben W. Barkley, permanent chairman of the democratic national convention, that President Roosevelt had no "desire or purpose" to run again, the convention broke out into a noisy demonstration, as shown here, with shouts of "We want Roosevelt" as its theme.

Ritchie Claims Demonstration Was 'Frame-Up'

Nebraska Delegation's Vote Certain Not To Be Unanimous

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—William Ritchie of Omaha, a delegate at large, charged today the Kelly-Nash democratic machine of Chicago "framed" the Roosevelt demonstration at the convention last night.

Ritchie said in an interview that before the demonstration started, husky men carrying "America Needs Roosevelt" cards tacked to poles stationed themselves in the aisles beside state delegations. When the demonstration started, he said, these men pushed through the aisles and urged delegates to take part.

A voice heard over the public address system announced several states, including Nebraska, wanted Roosevelt. When the Nebraskans tried to use the microphone at their station on the floor to state their attitude, he said, they found it was not connected.

A split in the vote of the Nebraska delegation was declared likely as a result of President Roosevelt's message through Senator Barkley stating his position on a third term.

Ritchie, supporter of Secretary Hull, said he considered the Nebraska delegates relieved from all responsibility under their primary instruction and declared he would not vote for Roosevelt.

'Delegates Are Free.'

Chairman John H. Morehead said he believed the Nebraska delegates could vote for anyone they chose "with no scruples" as he believed they no longer are

Rays of Japan's Rising Sun

By J. E. LAWRENCE.

Wednesday, July 17, 1940

THE rays of imperial ambition in the Land of the Rising Sun were being deflected into the magnifying glass of expansion Wednesday. The aristrocratic Prince Fumimaro Konoye, a strong exponent of the "new order in Asia" and a fascist ideologist, took over the task of forming a new Japanese cabinet at Emporer Hirohito's command.

Japan's renewed pursuit of the star of Oriental destiny was given additional momentum by the announcement that Great Britain has agreed to close the Burma road and Hongkong supply lifelines beginning Thursday. These sole remaining avenues for vital materials, shipments to the embattled armies of China are the ones to which U. S. Secretary of State Hull referred Tuesday. Hull said closing of the Burma road would "constitute unwarranted interpositions of obstacles to world trade."

Two incidents sprouted immediately as a result of the new crisis in the Far East. In Shanghai a mass meeting of 3,000 Japanese demanded "disarming of U. S. marines" in China unless the marines at once apologize for arresting 14 Japanese policemen in the Shanghai defense area July 7. And in London, in the house of commons, British foreign office spokesmen met with silence a charge by liberal MPs that the Anglo-Japanese agreement constitutes an Oriental "Munich." When a liberal asked Foreign Under-Secretary R. A. Butler whether the new agreement violated the principle which America's Hull set forth Tuesday, Butler replied: "We must leave interpretation of Secretary Hull's statement to Americans." Most of the war supplies for China have been coming from the U. S. A. since last September.

GERMAN REACTION—There were reactions in Nazi Germany also to Secretary Hull's declaration that America "has a legitimate interest in keeping open the arteries of commerce in every part of the world." The Germans said that if Hull espouses this viewpoint it is logical that he must also condemn the British blockade against Germany and Italy.

THE WAR LULL—The European war's lull continued Wednesday. Italy announced minor air activity over the British isle of Malta and claimed capture of the village of Moyale in British Kenya. The Germans said poor weather reduced aerial activity but claimed Nazi planes successfully bombed an English troop camp near Scapa Flow. The British admiralty admitted the loss off Norway's coast on June 10 of the naval auxiliary vessel Vandyck, a 13,000-ton liner with seven dead and 161 captured. From Stockholm came a report of nine men killed by a boiler

'We Want Roosevelt Now,' Reply Of Delegates To President's Message That He Has 'No Wish To Be A Candidate'

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 17—(AP)—The democratic convention recessed after a 50-minute session today until 7 p. m., C. S. T., when it will act on the party platform and proceed with presidential nominating speeches.

Queries On Roosevelt Get Go-By

Question On Whether He Would Accept Is Turned Aside

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—The white house cold-shouldered question after question today as to whether President Roosevelt would accept renomination for a third term.

Eager for information as to whether the president would take the nomination despite last night's announcement in Chicago that he was not a candidate, newsmen peppered Stephen Early, Mr. Roosevelt's press secretary, with questions.

He disclosed that the president, with Miss Marguerite LeHand, his personal secretary, and Dr. Ross T. McIntire, his physician, had listened last night to the radio broadcast of the convention proceedings, including the announcement by Senator Barkley (D-Ky) that Mr. Roosevelt had no desire to run again.

Silent on Other Questions.

Asked whether the president was pleased with the reception the convention gave his name, Early said a previous statement that there was "no news" was supposed to stop reporters on that.

Asked whether the president's "yes" or "no" to a nomination would be made public here rather than in Chicago, the press secretary said he would be on hand to relay it from the white house to the press if it was.

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, chairman of the republican national committee, said "Mr. Roosevelt will be nominated but he will not be re-elected."

Praise From Norris.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), a third term advocate, said: "I

"Draft" Demanded.

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 17—(AP)—Draft Roosevelt sentiment blazed through this democratic convention today with a fierceness which threatened to smother third term opposition and leave unanswered only the question of how the president will be nominated.

As confidently as if President Roosevelt had said he would accept renomination, instead of only that he had "no wish to be a candidate," Secretary of Commerce Hopkins and other third termers gathered to map the floor strategy for making Mr. Roosevelt the 1940 party choice.

Such details as whether to have a formel nominating speech, or simply let the preponderant Roosevelt delegate strength demonstrate itself when the roll is called shared attention in the Hopkins group with last minute polishing of the party platform.

What Mr. Roosevelt would do when nominated remained to be seen. New deal lieutenants here confidently predicted that he would accept, and some even hinted at a presidential address to the convention by telephone from the white house.

James A. Farley, national party chairman and a candidate himself, told reporters that any attempt to stampede the convention into choosing a nominee without a roll call would "jeopardize the party's chances in the November election." For himself, the postmaster general said his name would be presented.

Any effort to prevent the name of any candidate from receiving consideration, he said, "will be badly received by the nation."

Pepper Plan Blocked.

It was Farley's opposition in this boisterous convention hall last night which blocked a plan by Senator Pepper (D-Fla) to move an immediate Roosevelt nomination by acclamation. By compromise, it was agreed to nominate tonight, instead of tomorrow night.

Farley said that Senator Glass, 82-year-old Virginian who arrived today, would nominate him and predicted that the names of Vice President Garner and Senator Wheeler (D.-Mont.) also would go before the delegates.

After a brief conference with Farley, Glass told reporters:

"Mr. Farley has requested it and I will nominate him. It will be a brief and specific nomination."

While delegates threaded their way back to this scene of last night's tumultuous demonstration and echoing clamor of "We want Roosevelt now," the resolutions committee met down town to pass on a platform drafted by a subcommittee.

Pepper, outspoken advocate of full non-military aid to Britain in the European war, said that unless the draft contained "substantial compliance" with this view, there would be a last minute fight in the full committee.

Non-interventionists had termed the draft "satisfactory" to them.

Always Did Right Thing, Rev. Aitken Says of Lancaster Sheriff

The right thing was always the thing to do, and he did it with all his heart and prospered, said Rev. Walter Aitken of James W. "Jim" Davis, Lancaster county sheriff, at funeral services Wednesday afternoon in St. Paul Methodist church.

"He was a very likeable person," Rev. Aitken continued. "By the manner of his life, he commanded the admiration of his fellows. He was genial, kind and considerate.

"He was confident without being intrusively forward. He lived under the sway of an imperial impulse. He sought to perform his duty in harmony with the best expression of law.

"He knew how to serve under the leadership of another, and when the responsibility came to him he was prepared to play his part with a manly spirit and a high degree of efficiency.

"He took the place and attitude which belonged to him and set the rate of true manliness. He was thoroughly conscientious in all he did, in work or play.

BRITISH PLANE SINKS U-BOAT

. . . In South Atlantic

LONDON, July 17—(INS)—In an incident with few parallels in Europe's war, a huge British Sunderland flying boat bombed and sank an ocean-going German submarine in the south Atlantic, it was officially announced tonight.

A British naval sloop operating near the scene picked up survivors from the U-boat, the announcement said. The number of casualties was not known.

On only a few occasions since the war broke out have airplanes of either combatant succeeded in sinking submarines.

Dramatic Moment In History Recorded As F. D. R. Message Read

Spontaneous "We Want Roosevelt" Cry Follows Barkley Announcement That President Wishes To Retire

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE.

(Special Correspondence)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 17—In the glistening light of a powerful battery of Kliegs stood the man in white. He had just finished what history will decree was a remarkable political address, particularly that part of it devoted to discussion of foreign affairs, had acknowledged gracefully the rousing plaudits of an ecstatic audience when he returned to the microphone for the announcement this democratic national convention has been expecting.

The man in white is Alben Barkley, Kentucky senator, majority leader of the United States senate and permanent chairman of the convention. The announcement was President Roosevelt's first expression upon the clouded issue of a third nomination to the office he occupies. Senator Barkley, in measured manner read these words:

"I and other close friends of the president have long known that he has no wish to be a candidate again. We know, too, that in no way whatsoever has he exerted any influence in the selection of delegates or upon the opinions of delegates to this convention. Tonight, at the simple request and authorization of the president, I am making this simple fact clear to the convention . . . the president has never had and has not today any desire or purpose to continue in the office of president, to be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office. He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate. That is the message I bear to you from the president of the United States."

In the ticking seconds Senator Barkley required to read those words a new chapter of American history was written. Those who attempt to interpret for the press will write into the silence which followed, and then the bedlam which followed the silence a combination of honest effort to read the mind and reaction of thirty-five thousand people jammed into the stadium and in the case of a militant republican press also will write into it all of its hatred, distrust and prejudice towards the man who is president. That is what it did almost before Barkley finished speaking. When the humanity-jammed stadium — delegates and spectators alike, sat mute and puzzled they proclaimed in the benches and aisles of the press gallery the carefully matured palns of a "draft foundation" had caved in. A more reasonable view, it would seem was that the thousands were attempting to understand exactly what the words meant and were expecting Senator Barkley to make the president's message clear to them.

Then it started—slowly at first —gaining in volume and momentum bringing people to their feet, initiating for the second time during the evening the zigzag parade of states, with banners held high, through the aisles of that part of the stadium reserved for the delegates to the convention. The standard of every state in the sisterhood of the 48 made its appearance in the parade, with the exception of Montana, which has a favorite son in Burton K. Wheeler, and Texas, which reveres its own John Garner. The Virginia of the Byrds and the Glasses were in the procession. The Maryland of the Tydings was there. The Massachusetts which had endorsed Jim Farley did its prancing with the rest. Then the floor microphones began a vocal blitzkrieg, and whatever might have been those cries heard by the listening radio audience, within the stadium itself the refrain was "We want Roosevelt," while the mighty organ pealed and the blaring horns of the band added to the din under the leadership of Harry Richman. It continued for 45 minutes.

Barkley finished reading the message the president sent to the convention shortly before the clock hand passed the quarter hour after eleven. He let the demonstration continue until the midnight hour had been reached when he brought the gavel down on it for an announcement by the clerk that the platform committee would not be ready to report until 2 o'clock in the afternoon and a morning session would be unnecessary when he said the convention would meet at two to receive and approve the platform, then it could proceed with the business for which it met to "Draft Roosevelt" for the presidency. His words brought a spontaneous roaring cheer from the galleries and from the dele-

Open Race For Vice President

F.D.R. Indicates He Would Take Either Wallace Or Johnson

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—Suggestions that President Roosevelt be given his choice of a running mate should he accept a draft nomination kept the democratic vice presidential race wide open today.

Word from a high authority that the president had indicated that he had no objections to either Secretary of Agriculture Wallace or Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, was seized upon by backers of these two men as a campaign talking point.

Some delegates clung to the belief that Secretary of State Hull might be the convention choice, despite evidence that he was reluctant to serve.

There was renewed speculation on the possibility that Mr. Roosevelt might give support to Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme court for second place on the ticket.

Johnson Talks With F. D. R.

The report about Johnson and Wallace spread after Johnson returned yesterday from Washington, where he had a 10-minute conference with the chief executive. The report was not interpreted here as meaning that the president would insist on either, and supporters of other candidates pressed their campaigns.

One report was that Postmaster General Farley would support Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, for second place, but Farley himself declined comment.

Most delegates believed it unlikely that Vice President Garner would permit his name to go before the convention for a third term. E. B. Germany, Garner's manager in the campaign for the presidential nomination, has expressed the opinion that the Texan would not accept second place.

Others Supported.

Backers of Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, contended he would win support in the middle and far west. He is from Indiana.

Leaders of the Georgia delegation have decided to support E. D. Rivers, their governor, unless President Roosevelt should indicate another preference.

Kentucky delegates have discussed plans for backing either Senator Alben W. Barkley or Senator A. B. Chandler of that state.

Speaker William Bankhead of the house was reported gaining strength in the California delegation, and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri announced that he had told his supporters he was "not going to hold them back any longer."

Guard Of Honor.

Reuben Walt and Ed Boehmer sang two numbers in duet, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul." Paul Le Bar accompanied them on the organ and also played a musical prelude and postlude to the service.

The body was taken to Wyuka cemetery, where the drum corps, firing squad, color guard and buglers of the American Legion post No. 3, had charge of the service.

The funeral was attended by a large number of city, county and state officials and friends. The courthouse closed during the service out of respect to Mr. Davis who had been sheriff for two years. Mr. Davis passed away Sunday following a long illness.

Seacrest Is Head Of Local Committee

. . . On Refugee Children

Joe W. Seacrest has been named chairman of a committee to work with the U. S. committee for care of European children, S. A. Sanderson, chairman of the local war Relief Appeals committee, announced today.

Other members are Mrs. J. Knox Jones, Y. W. C. A.; M. T. Trast, Social Welfare bureau; Harry Becker, director of the State Child Welfare bureau. Louis W Horne, secretary of the Community Chest and Council of Social Agencies, is secretary.

The committee will co-ordinate local activities in relation to the national work and is awaiting word for the part it is to play. It has no request yet to place children and will not be ready to accept applications until word on procedure is received.

JAPAN INSISTS ON APOLOGY FROM U.S.

Hitler regarding possible "terms" to be offered Britain.

The Japanese foreign office announced Britain has agreed to close the Burma road—China's main lifeline of war supplies—and also shut off the flow of arms traffic into China from the British crown colony of Hongkong.

China Won't Give Up.

China, however, has insisted she will not give up the fight against Japan, despite these amputations.

In Tokyo, Emperor Hirochito summoned Prince Fumimaro Konoye to the imperial palace and commanded the 48-year-old advocate of a totalitarian one-party system to form a new cabinet.

Prince Konoye's predecessor, Admiral Mitsumasa Yonai, resigned yesterday under criticism for his failure to satisfy expansionist demands that Japan seize the "golden" chance proved by the European war to extend Japanese influence over rich British, French and Netherlands possessions in the Orient.

Powerful forces of the United States battle fleet, which steamed out of Pearl harbor, Hawaii, yesterday, were believed enroute to "patrol" British and French islands in the south Pacific—the region eyed by Japan.

In the European war theater, the German high command reported bad weather reduced air attacks on Britain, but nazi planes flew high over the island kingdom again this morning and heavy explosions were heard in a southeast town.

Merchant Ship Hit.

The high command said a merchant ship had been left in flames in an attack on a north Scotland harbor and that a British troop concentration was bombed at Scapa Flow.

Peace hints from Rome were met by London newspapers with a reminder that Prime Minister Winston Churchill has already served flat notice on the axis powers that Britain will "tolerate no parley."

Newspapers in London's old Fleet street flared black headlines over stories under New York or Rome date lines that Germany may start her invasion this Friday night from a 1,200-mile front along the English channel ranging from Brest, France, to Bergen, Norway.

Both Churchill's government and the Far East appraised Secretary Cordell Hull's declaration that the United States would disapprove Britain's closing the Burma road as a concession to Japan.

Hull said such action would be detrimental to foreign trade interests.

The Chinese government in Chungking said closing the road, over which it has been obtaining vital supplies, would violate international law.

think that the statement made it pretty plain to everyone that the president did not want a third term. It's a terrible ordeal to put a man in. It may mean his life. But he's a good soldier and always has been."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the republican vice presidential nominee, said President Roosevelt, in freeing his pledged delegates to vote for any presidential candidate in the democratic convention, "has very conveniently left the front door unlocked."

"Of course that means his nomination," said McNary.

Senator George (D-Ga), who long has been critical of a third term, said that the "statement made in the name of the president leaves the way open to accept the nomination and in view of the time and circumstances under which it was made, obviously had that purpose."

Aides of Vice President Garner said he had no comment.

Wadlow Funeral At Alton, Ill. Friday

ALTON, Ill., July 17—(AP)—Robert Wadlow, the 22-year old, 8 foot 10.3 inch giant, will be buried here Friday afternoon.

The body of the young man, who died last Monday in Manistee Mich. Where he was appearing professionally as "the world's tallest man," arrived Wednesday morning in his home town.

Funeral services will be held at Wadlow's church—Main Street Methodist—with the Rev. W. L. Hanbaum in charge.

'DRAFT ROOSEVELT' CLAMOR MOUNTS

by Rep. Elmer J. Ryan of Minnesota that the resolution group receive a plea for an anti-third term plank.

"We are all through with our hearings," he told Ryan and a half-dozen others who were with him. The Minnesotan claimed that his anti-third term proposal had support in 24 states.

Ryan, who formerly was a law partner of Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, keynoter at the republican convention, contended that the "Kelly-Nash" democratic organization in Chicago had "engineered a bogus demonstration" for Mr. Roosevelt last night in order to "intimidate" the delegates.

Kirby Vidrene, who said he was Garner manager for Arizona, was one of those who accompanied Ryan.

"If a third term is imposed on a free people," Vidrene said, "it is the beginning of the end."

Both Vidrene and Robert H. Anderson, delegate-at-large from Florida, predicted that renomination of President Roosevelt would insure the election of Wendell L. Willkie, the republican nominee.

Many Seats Vacant.

At convening time, none of the convention officials was on the platform. There were scores of vacant delegate seats and the tripled-tiered galleries had many more empty chairs than occupied.

Few delegates were on hand and many of those that were yawned openly from lack of sleep after last night's late session. The veteran Glass arrived and took a front row seat on the platform with his bride of less than a month.

The permanent chairman, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, came in from the platform committee room downtown and arranged a brief schedule of routine and entertainment, since the platform drafters had not completed their work. He called the fifth session of the convention to order at 1:16 p. m. (C. S. T.), and Dr. A. M. McDonald, superintendent of the Chicago Baptist association, prayed for "preservation of our liberties in peace."

After the organ played the "Star Spangled Banner," Miss Virginia Verrill, radio singer, led the delegates and spectators in "God Bless America."

Young Adams Speaks.

As president of the Young Democrats of America, Homer Mat Adams, of Illinois, fell in line with the "We want Roosevelt" cry when he told the delegates:

"We shall march forth into the 1940 campaign with the record of the Roosevelt administration as our banner."

Reciting the new deal "record" for youth and adults, young Adams declared:

"America remembers and the overwhelming majority of its people still hold their devotion to the man who made it possible.

"It is ironic that some would call a halt. The Young Democrats of America are not willing to call a halt. They demand that the country press onward in the Roosevelt manner toward the Roosevelt objectives."

France Paris of Oklahoma, chairman of the rules committee, then presented a partial report limiting the time for nominating speeches and putting a woman from each state on the platform committee, now limited to a man from each state.

The committee withheld until after a presidential nomination had been made, submission of its compromise delegate apportionment plan awarding a bonus of two delegates at large to future conventions for each state going democratic in a presidential election.

A feminine quartet from New Mexico sang "Home on the Range" in memory of the late Will Rogers.

Ken Murray, a California alternate, regaled the audience with a few quips about the republicans.

The convention recessed at 2:05 p. m. until 7 o'clock tonight when the platform will be considered.

Barkley told reporters that selection of a presidential candidate tonight depended on the time consumed in disposing of the platform. A nomination was "possible," he said.

Secretary of Commerce Hopkins said he had "feeling and assurance" that "when the president is nominated he will accept."

25-Minute Bedlam.

For 25 minutes, the delegates had let loose a bedlam of shouting and marching last night when Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky mentioned the president's name during his speech accepting the permanent chairmanship of the convention.

And then, when he finally read the message from the White House for which the delegates had been fidgeting, they turned the big stadium into a 50-minute clamorous tumult.

"I and other close friends of the president have long known that he has no wish to be a candidate again," Barkley said.

"We know, too, that in no way whatsoever has he exerted any influence in the selection of delegates or upon the opinions of delegates to this convention.

"Tonight, at the specific request and authorization of the president, I am making this simple fact clear to this convention.

No Desire To Continue.

"The president has never had and has not today any desire or purpose to continue in the office of president, to be a candidate for that office, or to be nominated by the convention for that office.

"He wishes in all earnestness and sincerity to make it clear that all of the delegates to this convention are free to vote for any candidate."

All the pent-up emotions that had been held back through two days of routine and oratory burst forth as Barkley finished. The noise swelled into a rafter-shaking tumult.

"We want Roosevelt," the delegates yelled.

"The United States wants Roosevelt."

"Florida wants Roosevelt."

"Georgia wants Roosevelt."

"Illinois wants Roosevelt."

"New Jersey wants Roosevelt."

Spanked Back To Order.

And so they went until it began to look as if the convention's regular procedure might be swept aside and the nomination thrust upon Mr. Roosevelt at once.

"Michigan casts 38 votes for Roosevelt" came the cry, over and over.

But Barkley, who after delivering the long awaited message had been alternately kissing state standards, autographing the cardboard placards and acting as a cheer leader through the big microphones, stepped in and spanked the convention back to order with his gavel.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, floor leader for the Roosevelt forces, announced that the resolutions committee had finished its squabbles over what the platform should contain and that the document could be adopted at the Wednesday afternoon session.

"Tomorrow night we can meet to finish the job for which you came here—of drafting President Roosevelt," he said, and the delegates began whooping again.

An adjournment motion was whipped through, and the delegates, hoarse and sore from their exuberance, went trooping out into the streets.

Hopkins And F. D. R. Talk.

At a hotel downtown, Hopkins was talking with Mr. Roosevelt by telephone and refusing to say what he had learned. But he also was issuing a statement of confidence that Mr. Roosevelt would accept.

A little later, 14 of the men who have been at the forefront of the third term drive were meeting in the Hopkins hotel suite to talk over the method by which the convention would yield up the nomination.

No word came of their decision. Nor was there any indication that the vice presidential race was settled. Secretary Wallace, Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson, and Supreme Court Justice Douglas were among the men prominently mentioned for the post.

All the thorny spots in the foreign policy section of the platform were said to have been planed away, thus eliminating the likelihood of any floor fight and giving assurance of easy adoption.

The foreign plank was described as satisfactory to those seeking a strong anti-war stand. Senator Wheeler of Montana, for example, called the undisclosed statement "a very good plank." He recently had threatened to leave the democratic party if it became a "war party."

Barkley's speech last night termed Wendell Willkie, the republican presidential nominee, a "political chameleon" because he left democratic ranks two years ago, and said the republican platform was "written in mud with the feet of a weasel."

"No political party or administration in the history of this or any other nation,' he said, "ever made greater sacrifices to avoid involvement in war than have been made by the democratic party and its present administration."

No Morning Session.

Chairman Farley, who was given a vote of thanks and a rising ovation last night, for his long service at the head of the national committee, has said his own name would be put up by Senator Glass of Virginia.

Vice President Garner's managers said their plans to have the Texan put in nomination had been changed no whit by the declaration from Barkley.

"The whole Garner campaign has been predicted upon the assumption that Roosevelt would not be a candidate," said E. B. Germany, the Garner manager.

"The Garner campaign has never been an anti-Roosevelt movement."

Though no word came from the headquarters of Senator Wheeler of Montana, Senator Clark of Idaho said he intended to make the nominating speech for his colleague unless Wheeler ordered otherwise.

The Maryland delegation had plans for putting their Senator Tydings in nomination. Tydings was one of those against whom President Roosevelt campaigned in the 1938 primaries.

The Maryland senator held one of the state's standards in its normal position during the Roosevelt demonstration last night. But the usually calm and dignified Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, went leaping about the hall with the other, joining in the shouts of "we want Roosevelt."

The fairly general tenor of the statements that came from party leaders after the presidential message carried a demand that Mr. Roosevelt be drafted and a note of appeal that he accept. But there were a few who differed.

Senator Clark of Missouri, a Garner advocate, said, "It's a very poor president who can't draft himself if he wants to."

Rep. Elmer J. Ryan of Minnesota, a delegate, issued a statement saying the convention was being run "by a group of white house manipulators." He said the "Corcoran-Cohen-Hopkins group has induced a tired president to accede to a third term draft."

SANDERHOLM DRIVE SEEMS A FIZZLE

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—The movement of Nebraska democratic convention alternates for more power was off to a slow start today.

Frank Sanderholm, Omaha, leader of the movement, said only three alternates, including himself, attended a meeting yesterday and no action was taken, but he promised "better luck" later.

BANKRUPTCY FILINGS

VOLUNTARY PETITION, filed in Federal court by Millard A. Herman, a shoe clerk, listing debts of $1,272.72, of which $1,022.86 are unsecured, and assets of $375, all claimed to be exempt. Doctor and hospital bills account for a great share of the debts.

M. J. ROBERTS TO N. U. MUSIC POST

Myron J. Roberts has been appointed an assistant professor in the Nebraska university school of fine arts, Chancellor C. S. Boucher's office announced today. He will teach organ, piano and theory of music.

Prof. Roberts has taught music history and appreciation at Union Junior college, Roselle, N. J., since 1938 and will come to Lincoln from Stanford university, where he is an assistant organ teacher this summer.

He received his bachelor of music degree in 1935 from the College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif., and his master of sacred music degree in 1937 from Union Theological Seminary, New York, where for the last three years he was an assistant to and for five years a pupil of Dr. Clarence Dickson. He studied at Stanford under Dr. Walter Allen during the summers of 1928 to 1935. Prof. Roberts will be organist and assistant choral director at First Plymouth Congregational church in Lincoln and formerly was organist at Central Presbyterian church in New York. He has written many anthems and is a contributor to the American Organist magazine.

dandelions on an early May morning.

The venerable Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, slated to preside, was able to remain only a short time, but long enough to deliver one of the most eloquent addresses upon the life of W. J. Bryan of recent years, and the address will be made part of the Congressional Record.

Former Attorney General Wayne Williams of Colorado then took over Mr. Daniels' duties. At the speakers' table were National Committeemen James Marsh of Colorado, Mr. William R. Wallace of Utah, Congressman Joe Shannon of Kansas City, Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma, Congressman Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, Senator Ed Johnson of Colorado, Congressman A. J. Sabbeth, dean of the lower house, Congressman Edward Key, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Allen of Lincoln, Gov. Cochran, Former Gov. and Mrs. John H. Morehead, William Allen White, H. H. Hanks of Indianapolis, and Miss Mack.

A speaking program of a little more than an hour, interspersed with personal recollections and political analysis of Mr. Bryan's services provided the program for the breakfast.

Ritchie For Hull.

It appeared that William Ritchie of Omaha would cast a ballot for Secretary Hull but the remainder of the Nebraska delegation were expected to give their votes to the president. Among the members they were expressing their deep regret that Mr. Farley would not remain national chairman, regret over the split between the president and Farley, with expressions of warm appreciation for Farley's services. Clarence L. Clark of Lincoln was among those who expressed that sentiment. The delegation was scheduled to caucus to determine its course of action.

Completion Of Demo Platform Is Delayed

provision, and a pledge not to yield to appeasement.

As the platform drafters gathered they were besieged by a group of about half a dozen persons, headed by Rep. Elmer J. Ryan of Minnesota who demanded to be heard on including ar anti-third term plank.

"Oh," said Senator Robert Wagner of New York, the resolutions chairman, "we are all through with our hearings."

The committee doors closed and the session began.

Ryan said that many supporters of the anti-third term proposal—he claimed strength from 24 states—were supporters of the presidential candidacies of James A. Farley, the democratic national chairman, and Vice President Garner.

Advocates of a strong anti-war plank who participated in the drafting said, however, that the declaration would be acceptable to all who opposed involvement in overseas war.

Opposes Sending Troops Abroad.

The plank was reported to make no mention of specific aid to the allies except aid that is now legal under the neutrality act. It was said to contain an expression of sympathy for countries resisting aggression, but to be firm in opposition to sending American armed forces abroad.

One committee member described the plank as a "mind our own business" declaration.

The plank also was understood to include a reaffirmation of the Monroe Doctrine and an assertion that aid given to foreign countries must not impair United States defense.

Such proponents of a strong anti-war plank as Senators Wheeler of Montana, Walsh of Massachusetts and McCarran of Nevada expressed approval.

"It meets the objections of any and every group in the United States that wants to keep us out of war," Walsh declared.

Wheeler, who had said he would quit the democratic party if it became a "war party," termed it a "very good plank."

Farm, labor and social security planks in the tentative platform were reported to contain a reaffirmation of administration policies.

The labor plank, it was said, pledged the party to create new opportunities for youth and deal with the problem of technological unemployment, while the social security plank called for an extension of present benefits.

It also was understood that the drafters put together a public power plank as a point of attack against the republican presidential nominee, Wendell Willkie, former utilities executive.

The farm plank endorsed the administration's crop control, surplus disposal, commodity loan, tenant-aid and farm credit policies, and pledged the party to greater efforts to place agriculture on an economic parity with industry and labor.

Secretary Wallace, a member of the platform committee, said he was "well pleased" with the plank.

Ward Nominee

E. Cecil Ward was nominated by the Lancaster county central committee Wednesday for sheriff at the November election, to succeed James W. Davis, who died Sunday, Guy Chambers, chairman, announced.

Ward, deputy for 20 years, was appointed Tuesday by the county board to serve until the November election.

THE PEACE OFFENSIVE—Although the peace rumors persisted in Europe Wednesday, London said these reports were merely "war of nerves" strategy by the axis partners. In an empire broadcast, Air Minister Sinclair said a great onslaught against Britain by land, sea anad air may come "within the next month" but "it will fail." He said the air attack will be many times more horrible than anything England has yet seen. The tone of recent British broadcasts of the horrors to come, always with the assurance that Britain will somehow withstand them, is a curious new development in England's defense psychology.

The German radio propaganda machine has been busy for months saying the same thing, except—of course—its conclusion always is that the Nazi attack will be successful. Some American commentators were saying Wednesday that Hitler has all to gain through an offer of peace inasmuch as the axis could cite the gesture as a "token of good will," even if it is rebuffed. There are many signs that Hitler does not feel too sure of himself as he contemplates the invasion of England. The announcement in London that Britain's ambassador to Moscow has had "a frank and friendly exchange of views" with Dictator Josef Stalin probably gives Hitler additional grounds for discomfort. Count Ciano of Italy, contrary to Tuesday's reports, still has not left for Berlin.

WESTERN HEMISPHERE—On the eve of the Pan-American conference in Havana, the South American situation grew more cloudy Wednesday. In a surprise move, Spain suddenly broke off diplomatic relations with Chile. The full import of this act was not immediately clear but the close political ties of General Franco of Spain to Hitler and Mussolini is well known. Moreover the strong thread of Spanish culture which is woven into the fabric of South American civilization lends additional significance to the move.

"But I don't think," he said, "that being released will make any change in the Nebraska delegation's vote although there might be a few votes for other candidates."

Belief was expressed by John Delehant, Beatrice, that "instructions are binding as long as the candidate has a chance to be nominated."

"The president released us," Clarence L. Clark of Lincoln, said, "but I don't feel voters of Nebraska have done so. It is my purpose to vote for Mr. Roosevelt."

Mrs. Mabel Gillespie, Gretna, said she believed the delegation is no longer bound.

"We can use our judgment," she said. "I intend to vote for Roosevelt if I have the opportunity."

Mrs. Frank Beers' Brother Is Returning To U.S. On Manhattan

Mrs. Frank Beers, 2252 Smith street, was greatly relieved Wednesday to receive word through the state department that her brother, James E. Grimison, is on his way home from war torn Europe.

He had lived near Toulon, France for nearly 20 years, where he was in business. Since the German invasion she has only been able to communicate through the state department, and was told that he was on the liner Manhattan which sailed from Lisbon last week, It should dock the latter part of the week.

HIGH TIDE

By Frances Hanna

YESTERDAY: Jan carries through her plans to go to Los Angeles, in spite of Lance's objections. At Jan's suggestion, Norma throws away her old fogy clothes and dresses up to startle Lance.

Chapter 29.

THE MEXICAN QUARTER.

"What can you do?" she asked Jan.

"Well," Jan smiled, albeit forlornly, "I do know how to cook and keep a house."

"You've probably had your fill of that." Ruth pursed her full rouged lips and frowned. "You might go down to Olvera Street in the morning and see if you can line up anything there. I noticed a place or two that employ artists to do portrait sketches for the tourists and sightseers. Would you like that?"

"It sounds fun, if I could do it. I'm not particularly adept at sketching people, though, at least I don't think I am. How about letting me try a sketch of you, Miss Cronin?"

Ruth took off her hat and ran strong, well-kept fingers through her mass of dark hair. "Fine," she said. "What must you have in the way of materials?"

"A sheet of white paper and a soft-leaded pencil will do." She pulled off her beret and hung her short white packet over a chair while Ruth hunted pencils.

The sketch, finished twenty minutes later, surprised both of them with its excellence. "Flattering, too," Ruth laughed, "which should bring you customers, or do you call them 'sittees'? Sign it and take it along as a sample. Ever been to Olvera Street?"

"No. I've heard of it, though. Isn't it called 'a street of old Old Mexico'?"

"It's authentic Mexican gone tourist," Ruth said. "Still it's very foreign and enchanting, and the ancient adobe buildings are marvels of endurance and solidity. Wish I could go with you, yet you'll probably enjoy discovering it for yourself. Be sure to peek and poke into every shop. See them blow glass miniatures and dip candles and make tortillas and weave sombreros and baskets."

"I think I'd better go to bed before I become too excited to sleep."

"You don't go to bed here," Ruth smiled, pointing to a pair of discreetly draped French doors. "The bed comes to you when you swing it out of the wall and pull it down after you move forty dozen rugs, vases and end tables!"

At Ruth's urging, Jan stayed on with her a few days. They were interesting, exciting days, filled with exploration of new and strange and exotic places. She found herself intrigued by the short tiled street called El Paseo Olvera, for it was by far the most colorful place she'd ever seen in her life, and she loved color, gaudy or subdued, just so it was in its rightful place. Palm and olive trees grew in the street and gay awnings were suspended over vari-colored shop doors. The vendors, shopkeepers, musicians, artisans, candlestick makers, were swarthy Mexicans who spoke fair English to patrons and gabbled among themselves in dialect. And sure enough, in a smallish patio, she found rows and rows of tacked up sketches of movie stars and other well-known people with signs advertising portrait sketching for fifty cents in fifteen minutes.

On her first two visits Jan just drifted in and out of the shops, browsing, loitering, drinking in the vividness hungrily. She bought two perfumed candles for Ruth; a pair of white "huarachas," hand-woven slippers, for herself; a gay, pointed-crown beach hat for Norma; and a box of sticky, sugar pralines for Lance.

On her third trip to Olvera Street she went into the little art store which, to her surprise, she found wasn't little at all, but extended way back into dark, musty depths where a woodcutter whittled and planed images from precious Lebanon Cedar. The owner of the place was a small dark man with quick eyes and very white teeth, who spoke excellent English. He told her he had two artists now and did not think the trade would support another. She smiled, admired some of the really lovely old prints and oils he kept in a special room. They had come, he said, from ancient missions in the heart of Old Mexico.

The interview ended when he agreed, with a shrug, to allow her space on one side of the sun-splashed patio. He was to receive fifteen cents out of every fifty she made.

Her fellow artists, whom she met at once, were two men, strange types to her, one old and one young. Both of them affected paint-splotched smocks, flowing ties and pancake berets—picturesque, if a bit too atmospheric, Carlos Mantz, the older one, also affected a small, gray-sprinkled Van Dyke and a smelly briar pipe. He had fallen to this sidewalk vending, he mourned to Jan, gesturing melodramatically, because the demon arthritis had so crippled his hands he could no longer paint his exquisite masterpieces.

"Tripe," said Angus Lorry, the younger one, to Jan out of old Carlos' hearing. "He never painted a work of art in his life. That's just a sob story he hands out to the gullible public. A good one, too," he admitted grudgingly. "He often gets double and triple his fee and his portraits are lousy! Say, why are you trying this racket? For fun or for money?"

"Money," she assured him. "I like to eat as well as anyone else. I won't mind, though, if some fun comes along. Is it likely to?"

"Depends on you," he said, obliquely.

Despite his effective getup he looked not at all like an artist, but more like a farmer boy on a holiday. He couldn't be more than twenty-three or four, Jan decided. He had crispy sandy hair, a snubby, freckle-spattered nose and a square, bony face upon which he strove to wear an expression of worldly cynicism. He was short and thick and he had broad, stubby fingers. But, she decided, after seeing some of his work, he had a very real and genuine talent, especially for caricature.

Although old Carlos seemed to resent her coming, Angus welcomed her. "The sort of people who'd let a girl sketch them, because she's young and pretty, wouldn't come near me or Carlos, anyhow. You won't take any bread out of our mouths, I venture to say," he told her.

Smock And Beret.

The first morning of work she turned up in her yellow smock and white beret, her immense blue eyes wide with anticipation, her golden skin flushed rosily. She learned that the proprietor, in return for his commission, furnished pencils and white drawing paper, a chair for the person who posed and a good solid drawing board on a stand.

Jan's first patron was a timid middle-aged man who'd had a secret yearning for years to be sketched, but somehow never found the courage until he wandered by and met Jan's quick, sweet smile.

He gave her a dollar for the sketch, eyed it as if it were an original Rembrandt, and scurried off, a smile of pure delight on his timorous pinched face.

The three artists worked intermittently, dropping the coins into smock pockets, resting, not talking much between times. By dinner time that night Jan felt more oriented to this new world, so far away from Sea Tide and the red house and all her problems and worries. Even Derek seemed part of a long ago yesterday.

Angus took her into the Cafe la Golondrina for dinner, ordering the cheaper Mexican table d'hote with red wine instead of the more expensive Spanish dinner. The lights were dim and candles sputtered on each narrow table made of narrow, polished planks. Half through the meal an orchestra took its place on a stage in one corner and played Mexican and Spanish folk songs. The place was crowded, colorful and fascinating to Jan, who watched everything with avid eyes.

Later, Angus led her up a stairway to a small dance floor above where another orchestra played rhumbas, tangoes and other dance music. Angus danced well enough and it was stimulating. Leaving, he said, without the least self-consciousness, "Your half of the check is sixty cents."

Jan sorted some change out of her pocket and handed it to him. Then they went back to work until midnight when the crowds thinned and the shops began taking in their wares.

Reckoning profits and commissions with Gonzales, the proprietor, she found she had netted over four dollars. Gonzales seemed more surprised than she. He nodded wisely, "It's because you're so pretty, muchacha, so eager and like a—a bright new candle!"

"That," said Jan, "is meant, I judge, to be a grand compliment!"

"Of the finest," Augus assured her, grinning.

He walked to the streetcar with her and asked her why she didn't take a room a few blocks away in the Mexican Quarter, where a number of artists and writers and poets had established a miniature Greenwich Village. "Cheap rent, cheap food and stimulating company," he asserted.

And so, the next day, Ruth drove her down early, inspected and approved the little box-like room with its bare floor and bright drapes and flower pots in an old brick hotel near the Plaza. She divined, although Jan had said little, that the girl needed a change badly, a chance to assert herself as an individual.

WINDSORS INSPECT WAR RUINS

Once again in the news following the announcement that the Duke of Windsor would be governor of the Bahama islands, off the Florida coast, the former British monarch and his wife, are shown in this new picture inspecting the ruins of the famous University of Madrid, Spain. This was a famous battle ground during the Spanish civil war. It was reported yesterday that the Windsors would make a brief stopover in New York on their way to the Bahamas.

Hitler Has All To Gain Through Offer Of Peace

Smart Thing To Do Is Try End War; British May Not Respond

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE.

Should Herr Hitler offer the British some sort of peace terms before attempting to "annihilate" them, as Rome and Berlin think may happen, it will to my mind be largely a gesture calculated to show nazidom in a magnanimous light, and justify the "total" war which must follow.

Only last Sunday British Premier Churchill declared in no uncertain terms that England will "tolerate no parleys." Observers generally believe he means that—and probably the fuehrer does, too.

Still, the nazi chieftain has everything to gain and little that he can't afford to lose by such a move. It certainly would be a great day for him if he could inveigle Churchill into accepting a peace which would allow Germany to retain all the fruits of conquest and regain the colonies which Britain took after the World war.

To be sure, Hitler would be foregoing his ambition to dismember the British Empire and thus make his hegemony of Europe complete. But he would be insuring the vast gains which he has made already—and after all, while he undoubtedly is confident, he has no absolute assurance that he can defeat Britain.

Terrible Battle Ahead.

If he should run into a stone-wall in his forthcoming assault and lose the war, he would also forfeit everything he has achieved in his seven amazing years of power. So would his ally, Mussolini.

The smart thing for Herr Hitler to do now is try to make peace—the winner keep all. Even if he gets the rebuff he probably expects, he will have made that gesture for the world to see.

Then we shall be all set for what likely will be the most terrible battle the world has known. I believe Germany either will win quickly by an overwhelming assault with her great air-navy, probably followed by actual invasion, or she may not win at all.

If the British can withstand that initial "blood-bath" they will have a chance to defeat the nazis. Time will work for England.

From Berlin comes word that the German people are serene and utterly confident that nazidom can crush Britain. And across the channel the Britons believe that they can cope with the most powerful war-machine ever constructed—the machine which already has overrun a huge section of Europe and utterly crushed their French ally.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

CHICAGO — For the inner Democratic politicos the big question mark over-hanging the convention has not been the ticket. That was settled for them last week when Roosevelt gave the nod on the third term. To the insiders, from that moment, the nomination became academic.

But simultaneously there plunked into the fore another mystery that has had both New Deal and regular chieftains going around in circles ever since. This is the question, WHAT is Jim Farley going to do?

Can he be persuaded to remain as National Chairman, and manage a campaign which even the most enthusiastic Administrationites admit is going to be very tough? Or will he step out and leave a big gaping hole that will be extremely difficult to fill?

Only one man knows the answer — Farley. Like Roosevelt, silent for two and a half years on the third term question, big, genial Jim has taken no one into his confidence.

You can get both a yes and no answer from his most intimate associates. Some are sure he has made up his mind to quit; others that he can yet be talked into managing the campaign.

One widespread story is that he told the President at their Hyde Park conference that Roosevelt would have to find himself another National Chairman if he ran again. Yet, Harry Hopkins, the personal White House emissary here, privately has expressed the steadfast belief that Farley "will be with us."

Two Certainties.

Two things are certain: One, that all hands are extremely anxious to have Jim direct the campaign; two, that strongly as he disapproves of the President running again, Farley will not "take a walk."

He may wash his hands of Roosevelt politics, but he won't bolt the party. Jim is an organization Democrat and regularity is a cardinal principle of his political faith.

Also it is certain that if Jim is brought around it will be only with the greatest reluctance and after the hardest kind of pulling. He feels his grievances very deeply, and arrangements he already has made for re-entering business would have to be revised. Jim has agreed to take over the New York Yankees September 1.

Frank Walker.

If Farley does retire, his most likely successor is Frank Walker, lawyer, head of a chain of movie theatres, head of the Roosevelt Library Foundation in Hyde Park, and an old personal friend of both the President and Farley.

Friendly, quiet-mannered and retiring, Walker doesn't want the job, either. It scares him. He has been one of the most active people here in exerting pressure on Farley to remain. But if Roosevelt insists, Walker will respond. He is devoted to the President and will do anything he asks.

If Walker becomes National Chairman, as lieutenants he is pretty certain to draft Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago and Edward J. Flynn, Bronx leader and New York Secretary of State. Next to Farley, these two are the most experienced executives in the Democratic organization. Either would be a sure choice for the chairmanship but for their local machine backgrounds.

Chicago Chaff.

The Utah and Florida delegations are divided 50-50 between men and women—the only such at any major convention...Dr. Francis Townsend, old-age czar, attempted to put the bee on Democratic platform-makers and candidates as he did at Philadelphia, but with no better luck. The only one to give him a tumble was McNutt, whom Townsend is now boosting for vice president...Chief pluggers for the "little business" plank in the platform, promising loans and protection against big business, were Senator James Mead of New York; Chairman Adolph Sabath of the House Rules Committee; Dr. John F. Carruthers, head of the National Small Business Research Bureau; and James G. Daly, President of the National Small Businessmen's Association.

Boy Plans Own Kidnap To Get Money For Pony

DETROIT, July 17 — (AP) — Eleven-year-old Raymond Diciare forgot when he planned his own "kidnaping" that boys of his age get hungry, so now he won't get his pony after all.

Found staring hungrily into an ice cream store soon after daybreak, the boy who sent police on a frantic search for his captor last night admitted he had written his own ransom note in the hope of getting enough money to buy a pony.

The note, addressed to his foster parents, demanded $500 by Saturday midnight and threatened that "your son will be killed," if the money was not forthcoming.

"I guess it wasn't such a good idea after all," he grinned sheepishly as detectives fed him after his all-night virgil in an abandoned bunkhouse. "I hadn't counted on getting hungry."

"I planned to send a second ransom note from the bunkhouse. Then I expected to get the pony," Raymond explained.

The "ransom" note was written on a sheet of paper torn from a school tablet and tossed into a flower box at the rear of his home.

Nurses, Doctors Remove Patients; Defective Wiring Is Blamed

TOLEDO, O., July 17—(AP)—Rescued without injury from a flaming wing of 56-year-old St. Vincent's Catholic hospital, 142 patients were cared for today in other parts of the institution.

Fire was discovered in the wooden annex shortly before last midnight and 21 fire companies were required to bring it under control.

Working with only water-soaked, anaesthetic masks as protection against smoke, nurses and doctors moved the patients from the wing as firemen played water into its rooms.

Attendants said a few patients were affected by smoke and some became hysterical, but none was hurt.

District Fire Chief James Conway estimated damage at $35,000 and blamed defective wiring for the blaze.

Mrs. Taylor Thanks Pope

VATICAN CITY, July 17—(AP)—Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, wife of President Roosevelt's personal emissary to the vatican, thanked Pope Pius XII in an audience today for his interest in her husband's condition during his recent serious illness.

Mrs. Taylor said her husband expected to leave the Rome hospital July 19 and return to their villa in Florence.

FOREST FIRES ARE BEING CONQUERED

MISSOULA, Mont., July 17—(AP) — A battle against widespread forest fires in Montana and Idaho—a fight that claimed the life of an airplane pilot—appeared to be turning today in favor of the army of weary fire fighters.

Forest service officials who since last Friday have sent 8,500 men into the timberlands to cope with nearly 1,000 lightning-started blazes said that all fires may be under control by tonight, barring adverse wind conditions.

Rites Arranged For 63 Victims Of Mine Blast

SONMAN, Pa., July 17—(AP)—Funeral arrangements were made in a dozen communities, large and small, today for the 63 men killed in a gas explosion at the Koppers soft coal mine Monday.

As the miners had many relatives here, nearly every home in Sonman was in mourning. One woman said she was related to seven victims.

No mass funeral was considered, the bereaved families preferring to hold separate rites in Sonman and neighboring towns where the miners lived. Services will be held during the next three days.

Forty-five WPA workers from Portage volunteered to dig graves on their own time without pay.

500 HEAR HAYDN ORATORIO GIVEN BY N. U. CHORUS

Joseph Haydn's oratorio, "The Creation," was heard by nearly 500 Tuesday evening as the University of Nebraska summer school chorus presented the work in the Student Union ballroom.

The excellence of this ambitious performance was all the more remarkable for having taken but six weeks to produce under the able guidance of Dr. Arthur E. Westbrook, director.

The more familiar choral selections, "The Heavens Are Telling" and "Achieved Is the Glorious Work," can be classed among Haydn's most inspired musical efforts. These and other numbers by the well trained chorus of 110 voices were executed with appropriate vigor.

Solo work was all given commendable treatment by the following singers: Sopranos, Miss Rose Dunder, Miss Enola Johnson, and Miss Lucile Reilley; tenors, Jack Donovan, Richard Johns, and Richard Koupal; baritones, Dale Ganz, Charles Oldfather, Ray Steele, and Val Zetterman.

Petain Government Plans Go To Paris Say Berlin Reports

Nazi Troops Probably Will Be Withdrawn From City If Marshal Returns

BERLIN, July 17—(AP)—The Petain government probably will move to Paris from Vichy this week-end, informed Germans said today.

Leon Noel, a member of the German-French armistice commission at Wiesbaden, is said to be in Paris for preliminary negotations with Gen. Kurt Von Briesen, German military commander there, following a conference with Marshal Petain in Vichy.

Problems to be solved involve telephone, telegraph and transportation systems and other public facilities, but it was believed here there were no major difficulties facing the move.

Sources close to the German military command in Paris said withdrawal of most of the nazi troop units in the city was likely in event the French government decides to return there.

Food Reaches France

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 17—(AP)—A trainload of food supplies, provided by a $100,000 fund for French refugees, left Geneva yesterday for Lyon, Toulouse and other parts of France unoccupied by German troops. A second train of 12 cars is being loaded today.

Case Reversed — District Judge Chappell Wednesday reversed a Municipal court award of $92.21 to Anna Schleich from David Schmunk for damages allegedly sustained in an automobile-truck collision Dec. 23, 1939.

Ask Permission — The city of Fairbury asked permission of the state railway commission Wednesday to build a 4-mile transmission line between Steele City and Endicott to serve a group of farm lines.

Still Unconscious — Frank Schafer, 36, Dwight, Kas., remained unconscious Wednesday afternoon, his fourth day in St. Elizabeth hospital. He was injured Saturday night, stepping off a Rock Island freight train, and has not regained consciousness.

Complaint Dismissed — A complaint charging Everett Martin, 1725 P street, with assault and battery, was dismissed in Municipal court by the county attorney's office. The dismissal was made at the request of Edwin Hoppe, who asked that the complaint be drawn. The charge grew out of an alleged fracas Sunday night.

More Meter Money

Ninety parking meters Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning yielded a "take" of $128.59 when the money was taken from them by Clare Sweeney of the treasury department, and Officer Bob Davis. There were $82.35 in nickels, and $46.24 in pennies.

The collection was made along the south side of O streets, and the streets to the south where the meters have been located.

There was one noticeable difference in the appearance of O street, Tuesday afternoon and today, compared to the same days a week ago, Sweeney said. There are more cars in the stalls this week, he declared, each block being dotted with them, where a week ago there were scarcely any.

Notwithstanding the larger number of parkers, Sweeney said there is still plenty of room for people who want to park close to a store or office they want to patronize.

Strong Pleas For Tax Relief Heard by Board

Boone Officials Seeking To Justify 50 Percent Cut In Assessments

Pleas for tax relief featured the initial 1940 hearing of the state board of equalization Wednesday as Boone county representatives sought to justify a 50 per cent cut in land and lot assessments in their county this year.

Boone was one of nine counties whose hearings were set Wednesday and it leads the state's 93 counties in heavy assessment cuts.

The three members of the state's five-member equalization board gave the Boone county delegation no encouragement that the 50 per cent slash would be allowed to stand but listened sympathetically as spokesmen told of a great shrinkage in land values during eight years of drouth.

J. A. Fleming, assessor, admitted, "One reason I assessed at 50 per cent this year was because of the pressure that was put on. . . . I have thought this reduction a little high but such pressure was put on that I could scarcely do as I would have liked to.

Not True.

"Ninety per cent of the people who talk to me," he added, "think that if you cut the assessment 50 per cent, you'll cut taxes in two—but that of course isn't true.

"We won't get much redress from taxes until we throttle the man who's spending the money."

State Treasurer John Havekost reminded Fleming that the counties themselves spend 86.4 cents of every tax dollar while the state spends 13.6 cents.

Boone County Attorney William Keeshan said he found it is no longer possible to substantiate the 1939 county assessment figures in court when protests are made and declared some reduction must be made. To show Boone assessments have been out of line, he gave these average land acreage assessment figures for last year: Boone county $46.88, Antelope $29.38, Nance $39.34, and Greeley $24.15.

Would Cut Levy.

If the board doesn't permit the 50 per cent assessment to stand, Commissioner Arthur Freeburg of Petersburg, said the county would cut its levy in half.

This thought of cutting levies if assessments aren't reduced was also expressed by representatives of Adams county who were called to support their 20 per cent slash in land values.

A. J. Theobald, Adams county treasurer, declared, "The county is willing to sacrifice on what it spends and we think the state should do the same and we're sure it will."

Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith told the county representatives:

"The easiest way out for the state board would be to accept the returns as made by the counties. The board, however, is a representative of and has an obligation to all the counties rather than any group of them, and as a result certain equalizing of real estate valuations must be made."

He said 27 counties have cut land assessments more than 20 per cent while 65 counties show a reduction of less than 10 per cent.

State Auditor Ray C. Johnson presided at the hearing.

Other counties heard were: Boyd, Clay, Dundy, Greeley, Hall, Hamilton and Harlan.

Another group of counties, including Lancaster, will be heard from Thursday.

One Brother Sent To Hospital, Another In Jail As Fight Result

A family fight which hasn't yet been fully explained to Chief of Police Anderson's satisfaction sent one brother to jail Tuesday night, and another to the hospital.

About midnight, police were called to Eleventh and K streets, with a report of a fight in the alley. As the officers reconstructed the story, Lawrence Oram and his wife, who live at 627 South Eleventh, and Bobbie Layne, 502 South Twelfth, were walking south on Eleventh, when Frank Oram, Lawrence's brother, stopped them, and allegedly struck the Layne girl. When Lawrence intervened, Frank struck him several times.

Lawrence was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital for patching up before being sent home. The Layne girl was not seriously injured.

2 Young Indians Are Still Missing

. . . From Reformatory

Leave Truck Returning From Weed Cutting; In Only 2 Months

Two young Indians who escaped from an outside working gang at the men's reformatory Tuesday afternoon were still at large Wednesday in spite of an intensive man-hunt which was conducted Tuesday night.

Tony Armell, 18, and William Hensley, 17, both from Thurston county, were reported missing by Charlie Woods, garden gang boss, just before supper time.

Superintendent H. W. Jespersen said the two had been working with 6 others, cutting weeds in the shelterbelt that runs from the state hospital to the brick yard..

They were missed from the homeward-bound truck at the brickyard corner. Woods hurried to the reformatory and gave the alarm.

Jespersen called for help from the sheriff's office, police, the highway patrol, state hospital guards, and others. The creek bottom, fields, Epworth park, Pioneers park, and all the surrounding territory was tramped by the searchers without finding any trace or clue to the whereabouts of the pair.

At noon Wednesday, the only trace of the boys was one hat, discovered by one of the searchers along the creek bed. It is thought the boys made their way out of town.

The boys were sentenced to a year each from Thurston county, for a charge of entering a car with intent to steal it. They began their sentences May 17.

John Dewey Day To Be Observed at S. U.

Dr. George W. Rosenlof, Nebraska university registrar, will discuss the Progressive Education association as a force toward improved educational practices in a summer session conference observing John Dewey Day at the Student Union building Thursday.

Contributions of the John Dewey educational philosophy will be discussed by Dr. Archer L. Burnham, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Teachers association. Dr. O. H. Bimson, assistant superintendent of Lincoln schools, will speak on "A Modern Approach to Civic Education."

The conference will conduct the following four discussion groups beginning at 3 p. m.: "Activities of the PEA", H. C. Mardis, Lincoln high school principal; "An Adaption of the Ohiowa High School Curriculum Designed to Promote Education as Guidance," Helmer E. Wolkow, Ohiowa superintendent; "Emotional Factors in Learning," Miss Lundahl, Bancroft school; "University Experimental Workshop in Rural Education," M. W. Darlington, Nebraska university instructor.

More Munitions For War On Chinch Bugs

Another carload of creosote has been received for distribution to farmers fighting chinch bugs. This is the fourth car and orders may be obtained at the county agricultural office at the court house.

County Agent Purbaugh said the creosote should be sprayed on the bugs and added that the spray will kill the corn. They have penetrated many fields, however, and spraying them is the only way to prevent their advance, Purbaugh said.

To Conference

Louis Buchholz, state director of agriculture, plans to attend a conference of the north central state agriculture administrators association at Deadwood, S. D., Thursday and Friday. About 10 states will be represented.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS PLAN TWO PICNICS

The Catholic Daughters of America completed plans for two picnic parties in August. The first, August 6, will be at the home of Miss Ceal Foster, and will be a garden party. The other is to be later in the month at St. Thomas orphanage.

The committee in charge of the garden party is Miss Marcella Taylor, Mrs. P. A. Siren, Miss Jane O'Shea, and Mrs. Mary Hughes. Miss Foster is in charge of arrangements for the picnic at the orphanage.

Miss May Hyland has been appointed chairman of the junior C. D. A. courts in Lincoln.

Assistant In Land Use Planning Named

Verdon H. Petersen Of Albion Appointed By Brokaw To Work With Maunder

Verdon H. Petersen has been appointed assistant state leader in land use planning by W. H. Brokaw, agricultural extension director. Petersen is a native of Aurora and has been Boone county agent the past eight years. He is an N. U. agricultural college graduate.

Verdon Petersen

Petersen is to be employed co-operatively by the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics and the Nebraska agricultural extension service, Director Brokaw said. He will work with A. H. Maunder, who is state leader of land use planning.

"The outstanding work done by Boone county's land use planning committee was a factor in Mr. Petersen's selection for this job, as well as his own leadership in this field," the extension director commented. His principal duties will be to assist other counties in developing the leadership of local people in land use planning.

Victor McClure was assigned to Boone county July 1 as assistant agricultural agent, and will remain there until a successor to Petersen is hired by the Boone County Farm Bureau board.

McClure is a farm boy, reared near Blue Hill, Neb. He is also a graduate of the Nebraska college of agriculture.

Montana Democrats Renominate Wheeler

Cheadle Leads G. O. P. Race For Senate Seat; Gov. Ayres, Democrat, Trailing

HELENA, Mont., July 17—(AP)—Isolationist Burton K. Wheeler, seeking renomination by Montana democrats for a fourth term in the United States senate, outdistanced Attorney General Harrison J. Freebourn today as additional returns from yesterday's primary election were tallied.

Senator Wheeler, now attending the national democratic convention at Chicago, established a lead with the reporting of the first precinct. Freebourn, under indictment on a federal income tax evasion charge, campaigned as a Townsend plan champion.

Returns from 594 of Montana's 1,195 precincts gave: Wheeler 48,200; Freebourn 13,526.

E. K. Cheadle, jr., Shelby, former republican state chairman, led in a three-way race for the republican senatorial nomination.

Gov. Ayres Leads.

Gov. Roy E. Ayres of Lewistown, seeking democratic renomination, led Arthur F. Lamey, Havre attorney and state democratic chairman, in the hottest of the state races. Returns from 595 precincts gave: Ayres 19,801; Lamey 18,485.

Sam C. Ford, Helena attorney, led a field of five for the republican gubernatorial nomination. Returns from 536 precincts gave Ford 8,775 to 6,522 for Mayor Charles Hauswith of Butte, his nearest rival.

Miss Jeannette Rankin of Missoula, the first woman elected to congress and a nationally known peace advocate, maintained a slight edge over Dr. Jacob Thorkelson of Butte, the incumbent, in the race for the republican nomination for first district congressman.

Charlie Barker, On 175th Trip To Municipal Court, Has A Complaint To Make

This story of Lincoln's public character No. 1 was introduced by the following dialog in Muny court Wednesday:

Judge E. C. Fisher: "If you really think the police have it in for you, why don't you stay off the streets when you have been drinking?"

Defendant Charles Barker: "Fine thing. I've laid out over $3,500 worth of fines in this court, and I can't even walk the streets."

Now Charlie exaggerated a little. He is Muny court's most frequent defendant, but the amount isn't quite $3,500.

175th Time.

Wednesday he appeared for the 175th time, was fined $10 and costs for drunkenness. He was arrested Tuesday night after being released from jail Tuesday morning.

Judge Fisher told him the next time the fine would be $100.

Charlie, who is 53, a peddler, and lives at 970 South Second, first appeared in Municipal court Jan. 13, 1925, second day of the court's history. His case was No. 7 on the docket.

Since that time he has been fined $2,310, and been given jail terms totalling 270 days. He has had his driver's license revoked 3 times for a year each, has been arrested 1 2times for petty larceny, the rest for drunkenness or drunk and driving, and has had three sentences suspended on condition he leave town for 30 day periods.

Costs in Charlie's cases are estimated at $875. This means he has paid the city $3,185 in fines and costs, so his $3,500 estimate wasn't far off.

Charlie's days in jail, laying out the fines, have not cost the city a great deal. He has worked almost every time, and according to Chief Anderson is a good worker.

Anderson saidd Charlie used to be better, and was only arrested about four times a year. Recently, in the past three years, he has been more steady. Since the death of his mother, about 3 years ago he has been free very little.

The chief said Charlie started a fruit business in Omaha a few years ago, stuck at it for 8 months, and did well.

One time not long ago, Charlie was arrested at night, and came to the jail with the officer. He walked in the front door, passed the desk where he was to have been booked, opened the broom closet door, got his push-broom, and started to work. Jailer Asher Blount let him work for an hour before booking him and putting him to bed.

Census Shows An Employment Gain

Community Chest Also Finds 6 Per Cent More Firms Here Than Year Ago

A Community Chest census shows that there is 9 per cent more employment and 6 per cent more firms doing business in Lincoln now than a year ago, T. B. Strain, chairman of the annual drive to be held this fall, said Wednesday.

The census showed 1,968 firms with 6,496 employes, compared to 1,857 firms and 5,957 employes a year ago. Those figures do not include larger business institutions.

Only 24 firms out of the 1,992 visited refused to give the names of their employes, Strain said, the lowest number of refusals the Chest ever has had.

"The census has heartened us a great deal," Mr. Strain said, "for with greater employment we believe we can obtain a greater number of subscriptions for support of the 21 chest agencies."

Transfer Approved

The county board of education Wednesday permitted transfer of 10 acres of land at Sixty-ninth and A streets from school district No. 146 to district No. 1.

C. F. Taylor asked the transfer, despite the fact that the tax levy in 146 is 7 mills and in 1 is 15¼ mills. He said it was more convenient, because he is 3½ miles from the school in 146 and only 1½ miles from the nearest Lincoln school.

The county board is composed of County Clerk Morgan, Treasurer Berg, and Superintendent Correll.

HAROLD HAMIL TO NEW YORK WITH AP

HASTINGS, Neb., July 17—(AP)—J. Harold Hamil, managing editor of the Hastings Daily Tribune since 1931, announced his resignation to accept a position with the Associated Press feature service in New York, effective August 5.

He has been associated with the Tribune since his graduation from Hastings college in 1928.

He is married and has two sons.

Garage Burns

A private garage at the home of Eleanor Baker, 2539 South Ninth, burned to the ground shortly after 1:30 p. m. Wednesday. Cause of the blaze was not known. The property is owned firemen made another run, this by Ed Westering.

At 2:05 p. m. firemen made a run to 526 North Twenty-second where a minor porch fire, believed started by a cigaret, was extinguished.

Body Identified

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—The body of an elderly man found Sunday in the Missouri river at Plattsmouth was identified today as that of Nels Samuelsen, 66, Omaha. Sheriff Joe Mrasek of Plattsmouth said the death was a suicide.

MRS. GRACE DARBY LUNCHEON HONOREE

Mrs. Grace Darby, junior past president of the American Legion auxiliary, was entertained at a no hostess luncheon Tuesday at the Lincoln hotel. Six bouquets of garden flowers were arranged at intervals on the table, where covers were placed for twenty-three. The auxiliary colors of blue and gold were carried out and the nut cups and favors, miniature sprinklers, were banded on those colors. Mrs. Darby was presented with a gift. The majority of the group went to the Veterans hospital, where Mrs. Darby is recreation director, to attend the hospital visitors class and the flowers were presented to the hospital.

Mrs. W. A. Bell, Mrs. E. L. Wilber and Mrs. J. Brierton Townsend were in charge of arrangements.

The executive board of the 8 and 40 met with Mrs. J. B. Townsend at her home Tuesday evening. Plans were made for the coming year.

Lancaster salon, 8 and 40, meets Thursday evening for a dessert supper at the Frank B. O'Connell cabin near Raymond. Officers will be installed.

Corn Crop Condition Is 'Satisfactory'

Need For Good Rain Expressed

Buffalo Spud Crop Said Good; Pastures Showing Lack Of Moisture

Corn in Nebraska started this week "in a generally satisfactory condition" but the entire state needs a "good general rain," the cooperative weather and crop service reported Wednesday.

With small grain harvest in the southern part of the state nearly complete and well under way in the north, the bulletin had these observations on the crop:

Yields Exceed Expectations.

"Harvesting of small grain crops is nearing completion in the southern portions with yields generally exceeding expectations except in the central portions. Harvest is progressing in the northern portions with good yields in northeastern Nebraska, spotted yields in north central and generally poor yields in extreme northwestern Nebraska. Yields in the southern portion of the Panhandle while spotted are averaging up quite well."

Of crop conditions generally, the service reported:

"Alfalfa, wild hay and pasture deteriorated during the week due to lack of moisture. Reports on condition of pasture are extremely low in a number of counties.

"Sorghum crops are doing nicely.

"Buffalo county reports red triumph potatoes being shipped. The crop is good and grading close to 90 per cent number one.

Largest Barley Acreage

"Madison county reports shortage of harvest labor and says largest acreage of barley in history promises excellent yield.

"There is considerable concern as to the prospective feed supply for cattle in some areas in south-central Nebraska. Considerable alfalfa is left for seed with some reports of blossoms blighting."

Army Recruit Stations Open At Scottsbluff, G.I.; State Total Now 4

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—The number of army recruiting stations in Nebraska will be increased from two to four by opening new stations at Scottsbluff Thursday and at Grand Island Monday, it was announced today at the recruiting headquarters for the seventh corps area.

The Scottsbluff station will be in charge of First Lieut. A. W. Tolen, assisted by Sergt. Paul Schlerer, and the Grand Island station will be in charge of First Lieut. R. J. Swanson.

The other two Nebraska stations are Fort Crook and Fort Robinson. These stations actually induct men into the army. The many other offices throughout the state are merely authorized to accept applications and are classified as sub-stations.

Injuries Fatal To Wilcox Boy Kicked By Horse

HOLDREGE, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Injuries received Monday when he was kicked by a horse proved fatal Tuesday to James Stratman, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stratman of Wilcox.

James, found unconscious in a pasture about an hour after the accident occurred, was brought to a hospital here. He apparently had attempted to crawl to the house before he lost consciousness.

Nebraska Income Tax Returns Up

. . . $2,852,515 In '40

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP) —The treasury reported increases today for both Nebraska corporate and individual income tax returns in 1940 over 1939.

Corporation income tax returns for 1940 were $4,652,589 as against $4,217,853 the previous year. Individual income tax returns for 1940 were $2,852,515 against $2,841,635 in 1939.

Employment taxes also rose but excess profits returns declined. Employment tax returns for 1940 were $7,213,851 against $6,623,517 the previous year. Excess profits taxes were $53,457 in 1940 as compared with $90,151 in 1939.

Comparative figures for all other taxes and for total internal revenue taxes showed similar gains.

In 1940, all other taxes amounted to $5,867,161, as against $5,236,163 in 1939. Total internal revenue receipts were $20,639,576 this year and $19,009,321 last.

Willkie Will Tour Nebraska

. . . During Campaign

COLUMBUS, Neb., July 17—(AP) — State Republican Chairman Kenneth S. Wherry announced here today that Wendell Willkie had personally promised him he would tour Nebraska during his campaign.

Wherry said the promise was made during the republican convention in Philadelphia and that Willkie's plans called for three or four appearances in the state. Willkie's itinerary now is being made up in Chicago.

Columbus extended an invitation to Willkie to appear for the 85th homecoming September 18-20.

Wherry asserted Willkie has not made any commitments for Nebraska addresses other than he would include the state in his campaign.

Old Oregon Trail Days At Gering

. . . SET FOR CROWDS

GERING, July 17 — (AP) — Sweet music from a calliope today sang a prelude to the annual Oregon Trail Days celebration which opens here Thursday, combining the fun of today with the history and romance of the past.

The Calliope played as a dozen carnival rides and a dozen more concessions opened for business before the celebration gets under full steam.

Thursday old timers from Nebraska and eastern Wyoming will start trekking along the old Oregon trail, coming back to Gering for their annual reunion.

Featured event of the celebration will be a huge colorful parade Friday morning headed by Adjutant General Guy Henninger. Trail days officials still are hoping that Wendell L. Willkie, republican nominee, will accept an invitation to come here and speak. Should he come, the officials estimated a crowd of 50,000 will be on hand to welcome him and hear his talk.

GOOD DEED

SIDNEY, Neb., July 17—(AP)—To an anonymous doer of good deeds, congratulations for cheating death. A power line repair crew that went out after a storm found a broken 2,300 volt wire neatly wrapped around a tree where it could do no harm. They said the person who did it escaped death by the merest fraction.

State Fireworks Control Plan Is Gaining Support

GERING, Neb., July 17—(AP) Scotts Bluff county commissioner J. Ned Allison's proposal to ban or control fireworks in Nebraska had the support today of state fire marshal Horace M. Davis and fire chief R. J. Van Fleet of Hastings.

They wrote commending the plan to present a fireworks control resolution to the Panhandle County Commissioners' association at Chadron Friday.

MRS. ELIZABETH LUKE

GERING—(AP)—District Judge C. G. Perry was informed today of the death of an aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Luke, at Racine, Wis. Mrs. Luke was a resident of Wahoo and Beatrice from 1885 to 1900 Survivors include another nephew, Dr. S. W. Sumner, of Valentine, a half brother of the judge. Both the judge and the doctor plan to attend funeral services at Racine Friday.

Refinancing Of 3 State Hydros Nearly Complete

. . . May Be Next Week

KEARNEY, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Refinancing of Nebraska's three big hydroelectric districts, involving nearly $40,000,000, will be completed next week or at the latest by Aug. 1, K. Sewell Wingfield, chief PWA project engineer for Nebraska, said today.

The refunding, Wingfield indicated, part of the general unification program of the Central Nebraska, Platte Valley and Loup River public power and irrigation districts, should enable the districts to meet their operating costs, and principal and interest obligations.

Meetings Planned.

Details are to be worked out at meetings to be held here, at Hastings, North Platte and Columbus between district officials and PWA authorities, whose chief representative is expected to be C. R. Shetterley, associate general counsel.

Plans have been under discussion for several months for refinancing which would permit extension of the time in which the districts have before their first bonds mature, thus allowing them to get operations in full swing and a steady income first.

Also under negotiation has been a program of unification of the operations of the districts both with regard to power and irrigation. Final financial arrangements will be made at the federal reserve bank at Kansas City, Wingfield explained.

135 At Chadron 4-H Club Camp

CHADRON, Neb., July 17 — (AP)—The sixth annual 4-H conservation camp has attracted 135 club members representing 35 Nebraska counties.

Flag raising services opened the camp activities which started with registration yesterday and will continue through Friday with emphasis on birds today, animals Thursday and fish on the closing day.

M. S. McMurtrey, soil conservation service, explained how soil is the basis of all conservation, and H. E. Weakley, North Platte, discussed the place of birds in conservation.

Texas Firm May Build Refinery Near Falls City

FALLS CITY, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Refinery possibilities in Richardson county are being investigated by the Mid-Continent Engineering company of Dallas, Tex., according to J. O. Isaacks of Kansas City, Kas., a representative of the concern who now is in Falls City.

Emil Gepelt, president of Mid-Continent, and W. C. Berry, vice president, plan to arrive here this week to confer with a number of oil operators regarding the refinery.

Mid-Continent built the million-dollar refinery at Phillipsburg, Kas., which has a 3,000-barrel daily capacity.

Big Western Wheat Harvest In Full Swing; Top Quality And Yields Range To 30 Bu.

SIDNEY, Neb., July 17—(AP) —The 1940 winter wheat harvest has moved into full swing in this part of the state with early yield reports ranging from 10 to 30 bushels per acre.

Most fields are running around 20 bushels in early cuttings, elevator men said. The grain is testing from 56 to 61 pounds per bushel, shows a high protein content and is of top quality, they reported.

A large share of the winter wheat in this area will go into storage under government loans, early marketings indicate. A few farmers are holding their own grain in farm bins but most of the new harvest will be placed in commercial warehouses in Omaha and Kansas City.

Some Hail Loss.

A hail storm struck a small area northeast of Sidney the night before cutting was to begin, damaging at least a thousand acres of good wheat. The loss ran from slight to total, farmers reported. Hail also swept across a strip on the Kimball-Banner county line this week and took a heavy toll. Hail loss has not been as large as usual despite these late storms.

East of Dalton several fields were averaging 30 bushels per acre in first cuttings. Near Gurley and Huntsman, on the productive north tableland, the wheat should average close to 20 bushels, farm observers have estimated.

Combining Starting.

Comining should reach its peak by the end of this week. Thousands of acres in the north Potter territory have not quite ripened, but are expected to be ready for cutting by Thursday or Friday.

There are fewer transient combine outfits evident this year. The usual small army of harvest hands have drifted in from southern states, however, and fleets of commercial trucks are on hand from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to "hire out" for wheat hauling.

Big Yields Near Royal.

ROYAL, Neb., July 17—(AP)—High yields of small grain are reported throughout this territory with Earl Ellsbury recording a 50-bushel average of oats from a 15-acre field.

"INJUN" HUNTERS

2 Lads Wander All Night In Scottsbluff Badland

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Billy Lessman, 11, and Don Englett, 10, Scottsbluff, were little the worse today despite a night of wandering in the badlands near here, lost in a storm.

The lads, hunting "Injuns," were frightened from a badlands cave by thunder and a posse spent the night looking for them. An airplane seacher spotted their dog but not the boys.

They were found heading home ward from Haig, where they had sought shelter.

Omahan Is Killed When Hit By Car

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—J. L. Grantham, 48, was killed early today and three other men were injured when they were struck by an automobile police said was driven by Mrs. Pauline Backes 27.

The accident occurred at 55th and Center streets and Grantham was watching the other three repair a brake on a truck.

Tri County Gets Possession Of Reservoir Land

. . . Including Lemoyne

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Federal District Judge J. A. Donohoe gave the Central Nebraska (Tri-County) Public Power and Irrigation district today immediate possession of lands, including the village of Lemoyne, for use as a huge reservoir behind the Kingsley dam near Ogallala.

The ruling affects properties involved in 10 court actions in which real estate was condemned by the district. Damage claims have been settled in most of the cases.

Owners' Arguments.

Owners of the properties objected to relinquishing possession on grounds that use of the lands for the purposes for which they were condemned will not be necessary for a long time to come. They alleged there would not be enough water to fill the reservoir for years in the future.

The power and irrigation district contended immediate possession is necessary in order to clear the reservoir site of all buildings, improvements, timber and debris in order to prevent floating objects from getting into turbines and flumes, and destroying them.

Judge Donohoe's ruling followed a recent hearing at North Platte on the district's application for a writ of assistance. The United States marshal was ordered to carry out the decision of the court.

How 7 Girls At Weeping Water Achieved Goal

(Special to The Star.)

WEEPING WATER, Neb., July 17—Seven Weeping Water girls, whose ages range from thirteen to seventeen, have demonstrated the old saying, "where there's a will, there's a way" is true. A year ago, at a state meeting of Methodist young people at Omaha, they heard about a national M. E. youth camp at Colorado's Palmer Lake this summer.

The seven decided they were going and set out to earn enough money. They served lunches, held lawn socials, sold home made candy, and earned additional cash doing odd jobs. They held true to their purpose and finally had $72, their goal.

IT'S pretty conclusive proof of a real value when more people than ever before buy a certain make of car in a single year.

That is true of this 1940 Buick.

It's pretty good proof of value when a higher percentage of all new-car buyers selects that car after looking the field over.

That is also true of this 1940 Buick.

The Buick SPECIAL 4-door touring sedan $996

So on sheer value, it should be clear that right now, "Best buy's Buick"—the question we'd like to ask is: Isn't this also the best time to buy?

Isn't this the smart time to put yourself behind a brand-new power plant, husky, thrifty, thrilling — and smoother than ever?

Isn't this a smart time to get more room—up-to-date controls — sure, soft brakes — new rubber — springing that never needs lubrication — truly modern features (Buick has no less than six dozen) — months on months of reliable, trouble-free, low-cost, stay-out-of-the-shop service?

Buick prices begin at $895 for Business Coupe — Sedan prices start at $955—

delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.*

All things considered, we think it is. Especially so when you consider current low prices.

It won't cost a cent to try a Buick, get the low delivered prices and have your present car appraised. Hadn't you better see your Buick dealer now — and do just that?

—COL. McCORMICK AS A HISTORIAN—

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE.

CHICAGO, July 17—If the democratic national convention should renominate Franklin Roosevelt as a candidate for the presidency, there will be one wretched Chicago publisher. He is Col. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune.

The colonel since last Saturday has been engaged in lighting the fires of an anti-third term rebellion.

One of his latest exploits, a historical contribution to the democratic party of which he is not a member and which he never has supported, was the reproduction of the plank adopted forty-four years ago by the party declaring itself firmly against a third term for any president. The colonel very cagily neglected to mention the circumstances. The plank had been adopted in the convention of 1896 at a time when unexpectedly the late W. J. Bryan of Lincoln, then a young man, unknown to the leaders, electrified the democratic convention with his "Cross of Gold" speech and became the party's nominee for the presidency. Grover Cleveland as the leader of the conservative block in the democratic party, and a "sound money democrat" had been brought forward as a potential third term candidate to head off the "dangerous young man" who had come from out of nowhere from the west to capture the imagination of the American people.

It was not necessary for the colonel to go back forty-four years to 1896. He and the Tribune as recently as 1912 had some first hand contact with the third-term movement. The nominee was the late Theodore Roosevelt, who with his followers bolted the republican national convention which picked Taft, organized a rump convention, and founded the Bull Moose party. That regular republican convention was presided over by the late Victor Rosewater of Omaha, then publisher of The Omaha Bee. And unless the memory is faulty in that campaign Teddy Roosevelt had the support of Col. McCormick and Col. McCormick's party.

Midwest at the Crossroads

IN THIS period of great industrial expansion for purposes of national defense the midwest finds itself at an important crossroads in its destiny. The fundamental question is easy to state. It is whether the middle west is to be entirely passed by in the plant expansion which will accompany the new defense effort.

This is not a question of regional selfishness. This is the picture: The eastern industrial centers are already too thickly populated for the health and comfort of their citizenry. If the entire expansion of plant takes part in those regions it means that the cream of midwestern manhood will be siphoned away from this region to work in those factories. This means a further dislocation of the balance between agriculture and industry which has wrought such grievous mischief during the past 20 years.

If the midwest is ignored at this time it seals the economic fate of this plains country for many years to come. There is an ample supply of cooperative labor in this country. The cost of living is considerably lower here than in the east. There are no sound financial reasons why the midwest should not take part in the expansion now indicated by the turn of events. And from a defense standpoint, the strategic importance of decentralizing vital industries shrieks aloud the sheer logic of such a course.

Miniature Earthquakes

AN EASTERN university has constructed a device which reproduces earthquakes in miniature. It is used to study model buildings under quake conditions.

This is a neat little scientific triumph to be added to a long list of similar accomplishments. Through cyclotrons, science can simulate lightning on a grand scale. With wind tunnels and gigantic blowers, the conditions of violent tornadoes, typhoons and strong gales can be imitated with startling realism.

All of this is undoubtedly for the best. Naturally the good scientists have some extremely practical end in view. Yet the layman can't help but be a little impatient with efforts of this sort. Most of us, at some time or other, have occasion to become jolly well fed up on lightning and high wind. And other sections of the world certainly get their fill of earthquakes.

For our part we would feel a little happier if science would shy away from its experiments with these forces of destruction and concentrate on something a little more cheerful. Such as, "What makes a baby smile" or "Why are puppies so friendly." But if the scientists simply can't resist tampering with the forces of nature and probing into the secrets of the universe we would like to see a concentrated offensive into the question of rainfall. If someone could only discover a surefire method of making it arrive, that would solve a lot of problems.

—THROUGH THE EYES OF GOULD DIETZ—

By J. E. LAWRENCE.

CHICAGO, July 17—That momentary pause of Republican Delegate Gould Dietz of Omaha here during the sessions of the Democratic national convention revived some of the unfinished business of the earlier republican conclave in Philadelphia in June. Mr. Dietz was one of the Nebraskans most resentful against Willkie's telegram shower which has been the theme for animated discussion in the hotel corridors and lobbies since last Sunday. These democrats get together and compare notes—how those telegrams to the Philadelphia convention, perfectly-timed, arriving in sheaves—seemed to be the outcome of a peculiar atmospheric condition which communicated itself to thousands of people in widely scattered communities within a few hours.

Talks To P. M.

UPON leaving Philadelphia Mr. Dietz ran into a representative of "P. M.," the new New York City newspaper.

It quoted him in this language:

"Gould Dietz, Nebraska representative on the republican notification committee, talked frankly and critically during a week-end stopover in the capital about what he described as the high pressure campaign at the convention. He said friends had telephoned, telegraphed and written in an effort to get him to vote for Mr. Willkie. Some of them even tried to influence him through his wife, he said. Mr. Dietz, a retired business man, said that although he was for Willkie now that he was a republican nominee, he was not sure the support shown for the public utility executive in telegrams and letters to delegates represented the views of the average voter. Blaming Mr. Willkie's supporters, rather than the nominee himself, Mr. Dietz was indignant at some of the tactics used. Mr. Willkie will be the seventh nominee he has helped to notify. He (Dietz) can hardly be classed as an upstart in republican ranks."

Congressional Ire

ANYONE with an ear to the ground at this democratic national convention can discover without much effort one of the sources of opposition to President Roosevelt. Particularly in congressional circles those members who have not liked him are smarting over the fancied wrongs of being ignored in regard to patronage. The state chairman of a middlewestern state not far from the borders of Nebraska was airing his views the other day and he said that in one agency he had been ignored in recommendations. Of course there are men and women both who are lukewarm towards the president, due to a sincere regard for the third-term tradition, and in other cases due to the fear that Amreica cannot stay out of war. This no intervention sentiment is as strongly pronounced here as it was in Philadelphia. But the number critical of the president's foreign policy are negligible compared to the rank and file of the delegates who applaud it, and who believe that the manner in which he has met the challenge beginning with Munich represents the shining achievement of his administration.

Women In Force

WE FORGOT to mention the most unusual feature of this convention. It is the predominance of women present in an active role. They are here in their best finery, proudly wearing the badges of delegates and alternates, and taking an aggressive interest in all the deliberations. There are 531 women delegates and alternates accredited to the convention, the largest number in the history of either party.

They have had more than their share of social functions but each social function has had a direct relationship to the convention itself.

Murray's Best Crack

TO KEN MURRAY, movie star, and one of the California delegation to the convention, goes credit for the best crack of the week. It took place in Omaha at the breakfast which the Nebraskans gave for their California guest. When called upon to speak, when Murray said this, he set a mark at which all the humorists have been shooting unsuccessfully all week:

"If electricity ever made a president, Tom Edison would have invented one years ago."

But over at the Sherman hotel yesterday where the main body of Nebraskans is quartered, a man with a voice deep and booming has been making life miserable for the democratic loyalists by shouting every ten minutes:

"Willkie! Willkie! Willkie!"

Without warning he changed cries upon them late last night. The same voice, in the same thunderous bass tones, split the early morning air with this:

"Hoover! Hoover! Hoover!"

Drama On A Tray

ONE of the few romantic dreams we have left in our personal stock has been shattered. That screen writer in Hollywood did it when he turned violent and heaved an ash tray at an attache of the German vice consulate out there.

Whether the assault was justified, we haven't any way of knowing but it's not in that phase of the thing we're interested. It's the way it happened.

We can't recall of any self-respecting movie hero ever doing his battling with an ash try. No sir! With just the proper grunt of effort, he always smacks the "mean man" right on the button with a righteous punch—or if he's a southpaw, with a leftist punch.

To think that a screen writer, one who is supposed to know about drama and suspense and right and wrong, would muff a chance when it comes his way! So we sigh heavily and put aside the thought we had that Hollywood does things off the screen the same way it does them on the screen. Maybe it's no wonder they have to give dishes away to get people to come to the film houses these days.

BLONDES HAVE LESS PIGMENT IN SKIN; DO NOT TAN EVENLY

Will vinegar or olive oil on the skin hasten a quick tan and prevent peeling?

Nothing will hasten tanning. Tanning is the mobilization of the pigment producing cells of the body reacting evenly to the stimulus of light. The brunettes have more pigment than the blondes and therefore tan quicker and more painlessly. Blondes have less pigment and tan unevenly—freckles, and some blondes have no pigment at all to speak of, and burn and peel and redden and suffer over and over again. There is no way to change these fundamental differences in skins: the pigmentless blondes should be protected from sunlight if they are to avoid reaction—and sometimes severe illnesses result from sunburn.

Vinegar evaporates in the sunlight and has no effect on tanning or peeling. Any non-volatile oil interferes to some extent with the absorption of light and therefore protects against sunburn and subsequent peeling. An oil with some dark pigment may filter light sufficiently to make tanning a slower and more even process, avoiding the unpleasant preliminary stage of burning.

Sensitivity to sunlight exists. It takes two forms. In one, hive reactions—itching and swelling occur at the point of contact. This comes on immediately and lasts a short time. In the other, there is itching, redness, secretion and scaling: it is a delayed reaction, becomes more pronounced the second day and lasts a week. Both types can be prevented with ultraviolet rays in doses just short of the amount that produces a reaction.

Is myopia due to a vitamin deficient diet?

This suggestion would seem to cause us to revise many of our present ideas about visual defects, but the evidence is reviewed with conviction by an experienced oculist of Kansas City, Dr. Hugh Miller. It is certainly not impossible because we know vitamin deficiency causes organic changes in the eye, particularly in the connective tissue which is the part involved in short-sightedness and astigmatism.

In questioning a large number of patients who had myopic visual defects, about their lifelong dietary habits, Dr. Miller found that fat was avoided by them, beginning in childhood and continuing into adult life. Vitamins A and D are fat soluble and Vitamin A is known to have effects on the eye, especially in forming the hard solerotic parts of the eye. The Japanese are not meat eaters, which means fat eaters. Rice and soy beans are their staples, and it is estimated that one and a half pounds of meat to the individual annually is the average consumption of meat in Japan.

"Our greatest difficulty," said a Japanese flight-surgeon, "in getting pilots is neither mental nor emotional, but defective vision." Animal experiments show that when fed on Vitamin-A-free diet, rats lose the normal contour of their corneas, and regain the normal contour when Vitamin A is added to the diet.

QUESTION

"Please tell me if calcium can be taken in tablet or liquid form. If not, what foods contain calcium?

ANSWER

Calcium can be taken in the form of calcium carbonate, a harmless powder. The food which contains most calcium is milk. Most hard waters contain calcium.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The Young Explorer

Through discontent you oft attain
The things you count as greatest gain.
—Old Mother Nature.

This is a true saying, strange as it may seem. There are many forms of discontent, but in one form or another it has been the cause of most of the progress the world has made. We hear much of the value of contentment but little about the value of discontent. Yet when guided in the right channels discontent may have far greater value than contentment.

When the big family of Johnny and Polly Chuck gradually broke up and the youngsters left home to find their places in the Great World they scattered in all directions. To begin with there had been nine. They had looked much alike, but could you have watched them you would have found as many differences between them as you would find between nine boys and girls of one family. There were those who were quick, those who were slow, those who were smart, those who were careless, those who were careful, those who were timid, those who were bold. And one there was who was filled with a form of discontent. From almost the first day he came out of his home for a peep at the Great World he was possessed to wander away. He couldn't be satisfied to remain where he should. So he was among the first to leave home, never to return. He became a wanderer and so he was named Rover.

When he first left home he wandered off in the direction of the Old Pasture. He found several places which when he found them seemed just suited to the making of a Woodchuck home, and in a couple of them he did a little work. But he wasn't satisfied to settle down. He wasnt' ready for that yet. He wanted to see more of the Great World. It was a form of discontent which all explorers know.

So little Rover Chuck kept moving on from place to place. He returned to the Green Meadows and in time he visited the Old Orchard. It was there at the end near the Green Forest that he found the home of his brother, Chuckles. They promptly quarreled, which of course was foolish, but natural. You see, too many Woodchucks living as close neighbors would mean too little food for all. So Old Mother Nature has made Chucks unwilling to have near neighbors of their own kind.

When Rover Chuck left the Old Orchard he climbed over the old stone wall at the end, crossed a road and entered the Green Forest. Right away he forgot his recent quarrel with his brother.

He kept still and watched.

Here was a new and strange place. There had been some small trees in the Old Pasture. There were big trees in the Old Orchard, but they were far apart with grass growing under them. Here it was different, very different. The trees grew tall and so near together that it was shady all the time under them. Everything was different here, very different. The young Chuck drew a long breath. He wouldn't, he couldn't be satisfied until he had explored far and wide in this strange place of many trees.

Now with his desire to explore he had plenty of good sound Chuck sense. He knew that wherever he might be an enemy was likely to appear when least expected. So he was at all times alert and watchful. He moved with the greatest care and he noted every place in which he might hide or find shelter in case an enemy should appear.

When he came to the Lone Little Path he started down this. He moved along slowly and carefully. For some distance it was beneath the trees. Then it crossed a small open space where the sunlight was bright. The soil was rather loose and sandy there. He looked carefully down the Lone Little Path and all over that little open space to be sure that the way was clear. At first he saw nothing. Then something moved in the middle of the path in the middle of the open space, the spot on which jolly, bright, round Mr. Sun shone his brightest.

He kept still and watched. something queer was going on there. He couldn't make it out. He was suspicious and fearful. A big bird suddenly arose and stood on that spot, then shook himself so that the dust flew out from his ruffled feathers. It was Thunderer the Grouse. He was taking a combined dust and sun bath.

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

FORTUNE

Is it fortune to be rich
And wholly spared from debt;
To view no lovely jewel, which
You can't afford to get;
To see no pleasure far or near
For lack of means denied,
But every wish from year to year
Once uttered, gratified?

Is it fortune to be saved
From every need for skill;
To have no hardships to be braved,
And never owe a bill;
To have no distant goal to seek
To work for and to wait,
But month by month and week by week
Miss all that makes men great?

I think the richer, happier man
Is he with wants to fill;
With dreams to serve and ends to plan,
And deeds that call for skill.
The man with hope of joys to be
And things to earn and buy,
Achieves that thrill of victory
Which riches oft deny.

Calling All Dogs

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

YOUR DOG IN AUGUST

Mrs. R. E. of Houston, Texas, writes me:

"It is hot down here, in the summer months. The heat is tough enough on us humans. But nine times tougher for dogs. Heat, fleas, ticks (I never saw or heard of a dog-tick till I came South), mosquitoes, flies, and every other form of doggy affliction. This is a grand part of America to live in. I love it. But in summer it is hard upon dogs. (So it was, in New Jersey, when I lived there. So it is everywhere.) Can't you say something to make life easier for our dogs in summer? It will do a lot of good."

Well, Mrs. R. E., of Houston, for years I have been preaching to you readers about the sane care of your dogs in summer. In brief, it sums up to this:

Let them loaf in the cool shade during the heat of the day and always within reach of plenty of cool fresh water. Don't exercise them in hot weather except between sunset and sunrise. Don't take them for walks, in the sun. Brush (not comb) them every day. Rub some harmless antivermin powder into their skins frequently. A few drops of oil of citronella on the ear-tips will keep insects away from the ears. Don't overfeed.

Whether you live in Texas or in Alaska, those rules hold good.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

Add obsolete words: Isolationist.

Delegates are as smart as other people, but how strange to see so few ordinary people deciding the fate of a whole nation.

Maybe freedom isn't good for people. An old batchelor, like a king or millionaire, thinks the right time to be there on time is when he gets darned good and ready.

Society on the beach, as revealed in a New York Sunday paper, indicates that nature keeps the rich humble by making them look awful.

Modern bathrooms are a refining influence. Nobody writes poetry on tile.

There are now "breath sweeteners" that will kill the odor of everything except halitosis, onions and mountain corn.

Another reason to hope for an English victory is that nobody would be qualified to say: "I told you so."

If they haven't a dog, the things to which people are most loyal are their religion, their dentist and their pet antiseptic.

If it isn't beautiful or useful and you wouldn't give a dime for a dozen, it is either a bridge prize or a souvenir.

Why pity those who must accept a ruler they despise? Our people must be loyal to any kind of guy the party nominates.

A luxury is anything for which you charge the customer too much because you won't get another crack at him.

Men still have one advantage. Nothing a woman can do to herself improves her as a shave and a haircut improve a man.

To measure England's service to civilization, check up on the stealing that is done as her power declines.

Some power will dominate the earth. The nation that cannot or will not must accept domination by another.

We don't deserve to survive. God made America great enough to lead and police the world, and we rejected the responsibility and delivered the earth to thieves.

Now Japan has a Monroe Doctrine, but it's different. Ours protects people from foreign despots—not foreign goods.

Committee Is Given Free Hand By White House In Drawing Planks

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE.
(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE)

CHICAGO, July 17—John W. Delehant, Nebraska's representative on the platform committee, put in an exceedingly busy 48 hours with the other members in session at the Blackstone hotel.

While no official word has come from the committee, and Mr. Delehant was not in a position to discuss its work, the hottest iron in its hands was the plank on war.

With a marked degree of patience the committee devoted hours to listening to the representatives of youth organizations demanding a no-war plank. Finally that patience became somewhat worn, particularly after spokesmen for the organizations began to tell how many members they represented, how much influence they had, how many votes they controlled, and how failure to heed their pleas would result in reprisals against the party. In their exuberance for the peace cause, and their admiration of their strength in numbers and political influence the youth succeeded in getting themselves told off by some very plain and blunt-spoken members of the committee.

No Dictation

Contrary to specific reports published in Chicago newspapers, and widely circulated in other sections, this platform is being written by the committee at work here and not dictated over a telephone wire leading from the executive offices in Washington. From all indications no master's voice has had anything to say either by way of recommendations or request what the platform shall contain or how it shall be phrased.

Much of the trouble over the plank defining the party's attitude toward war was eliminated through the president's unmistakable determination that no American boy should be sent to fight on foreign soil. Every reference to that pledge which the president made in requesting defense appropriations has evoked the sharpest applause of the convention.

On the morning after—the morning after the keynote speech—it became very apparent that someone within the democratic organization not only has a very keen sense of humor but a startlingly accurate judgment of Speaker Bankhead's oratorical capacity. His speech was to have been more than a keynote address.

Bankhead had convinced himself he was the logical candidate for vice-president. The speech which he gave was to establish his star so firmly in the sky that when the time came for ballotting the rush for Bankhead would prove irresistible. If he had a chance before the keynote address, he hasn't now, except that he adopt the fashion set by John Garner, who invariably returns to his hunting and fishing during presidential campaigns.

The speech which was to have made Bankhead actually undressed him to reveal a southern politician of the old school who hung upon his words with a persistence and a heaviness that both indicated and called for exceptional powers of endurance.

At the very brief day session yesterday one bright spot was the appearance of twelve women dressed in costume before the microphone while the part the women have played in campaigns and in organization work was spread before the convention. The air was filled with printed pamphlets thrown from the stage setting forth in detail the activities of the women.

Provides a Thrill

At the same time Mrs. Thomas McAllister, director of the women's division of the democratic national committee, as glamorous as Dorothy Lamour, and as effective a speaker as has appeared before the convention, gave the delegates a thrill and at the same time drew their stormy applause with her tribute to the president's foreign policy.

The usually reliable Chicago Daily News is authority for the statement Mr. Farley will retire from the cabinet, and will give up his post as chairman of the national committee within the next two months. Farley was reported as extremely bitter against the Corcoran-Ickes-Hopkins-Perkins combination. Up to the time when this was written Mr. Farley had done no talking publicly and very little privately.

That radiant 8-year-old bridegroom, the distinguished and scholarly senator from Virginia, Carter Glass, whom the president so frequently affectionately called "the irreconcilable rebel," was reported to have offered to place Mr. Farley in nomination if Farley desired but he thought it unwise himself. Somewhat a patriarch among the democrats the appearance of Carter Glass on the scene is always good for the flashing of cameras and the hustling newshounds. There is never a dull moment with Mr. Glass in town. He may have spoken before this appears but if he hasn't and if he intends to, there is likely to be an unusual amount of electricity in the air.

Wheeler Wires Reminiscent Of Willkie Drive

. . . Another "Uprising"

BY JAMES E. LAWRENCE.
(Special Correspondence).

CHICAGO, July 17—The style set by the followers of Wendell L. Willkie in Philadelphia apparently has found favor among advocates of Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a shower of letters and telegrams received by Nebraska State Chairman William A. Schall of Omaha in the last 48 hours would indicate.

There was another impressive "uprising" by the people. Mr. Schall's mail covered a desk, and when the desk was heaped high overflowed into the wastebasket. Among the telegrams and letters were a number from Nebraska but the majority came from other states and if they originated within any single organization it appeared that the Youth group was active. Without exception the letters and telegrams stressed the theme of peace and were couched in such language as to instruct the convention Montana's Wheeler was the only man in the democratic party who would keep the United States out of war.

Here was one sample from Raeville, Neb.:

"Mr. W. B. Schall,
Democratic convention, Chicago.

Dear Mr. Schall: The people around here want a candidate for president who will keep America out of the war and we are convinced that man is Burton K. Wheeler. We are expecting you and other members of the Nebraska delegation to give him your support and to insist upon his peace plank in the platform. We really mean it when we say 'We Want Wheeler.'

Very truly yours,
_____."

The campaign for Wheeler has brought the Nebraska delegation more mail from home and far from home than any other development of the convention.

Nebraskans Asked To Support Plank Urged By Women

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE.
(Special Correspondence.)

CHICAGO, July 17—The Nebraska delegation was made aware yesterday of the preponderant representation of women in this Democratic national convention, when its support of a plank proposed for the platform to be adopted was solicited.

The plank calls for equal representation for women on the platform committee itself. In both parties today each state is restricted to one member. As a result traditionally the platform committee have been comprised exclusively of men. Under the proposal for equal representation the membership of the platform committee would be doubled to include 96 representatives, or two from each state. Outcome of the women's demand will not be known until the platform committee completes its work but the outlook was none too cheering, due to the feeling that the addition of 48 members would make the committee cumbersome and nullify its labors.

Nevertheless the foundation was being laid among the Nebraska delegation for support for the proposal. Mrs. Clarence L. Clark of Lincoln was asked to give it her assistance. There was a possibility that Nebraska might split her fourteen votes in the convention, seven and seven, in the event the plank gets the nod from the platform committee and comes before the convention. As one of the pioneer states in the suffrage movement it was felt Nebraska could improve its condition with the women's branch of the party organization by giving favorable consideration to the proposal.

Prompt Irrigation of Corn Is Urged

If corn land in irrigated sections has not been watered it is better to do it now than to wait on the chance it might rain, Extension Engineer Ivan Wood said today.

"Water should be turned down the rows without regard to where it runs, just so it reaches the roots and penetrates the subsoil," Wood said.

Wood went on to point out that irrigation farmers who put a good supply of water into the soil last fall are reaping their reward now.

"Corn planted on land where the subsoil was thoroughly watered before planting time has had a chance to develop a good root system," he pointed out. "A little later these farmers will need to put on one or two applications to mature a good crop."

Tired of Working

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., July 17—(AP)—A 15-year-old boy appeared in Juvenile court today charged literally with throwing a wrench into the machinery.

The prosecutor called him a "saboteur and traitor" for causing a 15-minute delay at a brick works.

The boy, fined £5 (about $20), said he threw the wrench because he was tired of working.

Free To Talk, Downs Reveals How Skillful Nazi Agents Ordered French Retreats, Undermined Army Morale

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Back in America and free at last from censorship, Kenneth Downs, manager of the Paris bureau and chief western front correspondent for International News Service, today writes the first chapter of an exclusive series revealing the real—and hitherto untold—reasons for the collapse of France and her famous military machine in the face of Germany's blitzkrieg.)

By KENNETH DOWNS.

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—On the night of May 15 I was en route to Paris by refugee train. I was going back from the Meuse front to find out why all correspondents had been blindfolded and handcuffed—stopped from learning or telling anything about the tremendous events then shaping.

It took eighteen hours to make this four-hour trip. There were continual air raids. Shattered rails had to be repaired. We were re-routed twice.

During a pause between St. Quentin and Ham, some eighty miles west of the Meuse, we were stopped for the fiftieth time. I stepped out of the jammed coach and lay down in a patch of clover. As I looked up into the starless night a cold chill passed over me. The ground seemed to vibrate. The air was suddenly filled with an ominous, far-reaching, deep-voiced gabble; a vague and distant and sinister sound.

Disaster At Night.

I didn't know what it meant, but my reporter's sixth sense told me it was disaster.

It was not until two days later that I learned it was a German barrage laid down not twenty-five miles back, in country we had traversed earlier that day. By its tremendous volume and nearness it signaled (though I couldn't believe the signals then) the collapse of the Ninth French army — and, with that collapse, the fall of France.

General Andre Corap's Ninth army, at whose headquarters in Vervins I had been two days before, was being pulverized — beaten to a very considerable and probably decisive extent by fifth columnists within its ranks. By fifth columnists, in this instance, I mean, not French traitors, but incredibly daring German spies who, disguised as junior officers and non-commissioned officers, had spread panic through every wavering, hard-pressed unit of the army.

As for France, even without the "cinquieme columnists," France had been traveling the road toward defeat since the second month of the war.

Why was the world not told of what was happening? Because of the French censorship — a paralyzing, sinister censorship which I have reason to believe contained its good share of Nazi agents and which contributed materially to France's defeat. It was a censorship which consistently deceived the French people as to the real state of affairs and, in the course of doing, also deceived the world.

This censorship hid the facts from France before the war ever started. It combined with German astuteness and patience to undermine French morale.

A day before that night, swiftly-advancing nazi barrage had announced the doom of the Ninth army, I had stood in a room which saw the end of a typical German fifth columnist.

A Captain Speaks.

A captain of the intelligence service of the six motorized division of the adjoining second army—a truly heroic division—told me the story.

"In the first two or three days of the terrible dive-bombing attacks, our men were rattled," he explained. "There were 'flottments' everywhere, broken units drifting back from the front. But when we stopped them — we at headquarters didn't sleep for five days; we were manning all roads —and questioned them, they always seemed surprised. 'But isn't there an order for a retreat?' they invariably asked.

"When we told them there was not, they unfailingly hastened back to their posts."

I asked what had led the men to retreat in such cases. The captain seemed amazed at my ignorance.

"But the cinquieme columnists, of course," he said. "They were everywhere, everywhere."

"But how did they get in? How did they operate?" I asked.

"Ah," he said, "they were here in advance. They came at night. They dropped by parachute. They got in by all means. They were carefully trained. They had French uniforms. They knew their stuff.

"We got one right here where you stand. You see that spot on the floor?" He pointed to the floor of what had been the dining room of the farm house.

Breathless Messenger.

"This man was dressed in the uniform of a second lieutenant. He came late at night, breathless. He said he was from the adjoining division. He said: 'We have been hit hard. Our position is hopeless. We are even cut off from the army headquarters. Can you put me through to the army?'

"We were stunned to learn this division on our left flank was smashed. While preparing to rush through a call to the army we fortunately followed the routine and asked for his papers. He reached in his pocket. A look of consternation crossed his face. He said, 'My God, I have even lost my papers!'

"We were at once on guard and began to question him. He saw his game was up and reached for his pistol. A little captain from Paris beat him to the draw. He shot where you stand. He had great nerve, but he was unlucky."

This was the technique employed by nazi agents at the front. They seldom ordered retreats. They spread panic by innuendo, disseminating rumors of retreat, or indicating that units on all sides were fleeing. It was effective. It was astounding to find how well this technique worked out in an army as compact as the French.

The Germans won the war with their all-out attack on and over and within the French Ninth army. They seized the bridges of the Meuse and their tanks were pouring across them before the army headquarters had even begun to realize the necessity of blowing them up.

When weary, ineffective Generalissimo Maurice Gamelin, who was never meant to lead the army at war and whom the lowest subaltern in the army felt would be replaced in time, learned of the breakthrough on the Meuse, he did an incredible thing. Before his staff at La Ferte he threw up his hands in despair. He clutched his gray temples and said: 'Tout est perdu" (all is lost). He was right.

Brilliant Victory.

No army ever won a more brilliant victory than that of the German panzer divisions on the Meuse. No surgeon ever performed a more deft and masterful operation. That victory, within a week from the start of the great offensive, beat France. You can't get away from that. You can talk about treachery and "sell-outs" and all the rest, but the fact remains France lost because she was thoroughly beaten on the field.

French troops fought with flaming heroism. But their military machine proved to be a horse and buggy affair against a great, streamlined Martian express.

The French intelligence service knew this great instrument was being constructed. But during the years before the war and during the months before the fatal offensive, internal dissension, incredible factional hatreds rotted away the spine of France while Germany waited to strike—a lean, hungry, savage cat at the rat-hole in the Maginot line—waiting for the moment to pounce.

In another chapter I shall tell of the conditions which made it possible for them to leap at that rat-hole with such devastating success.

(A second article in this series will follow Thursday.)

Will Fulfill Pledge.

There didn't seem to be among the excited throngs in the corridors and lobbies of the hotels later much doubt but that those delegations pledged to vote for Roosevelt as a result of presidential preference in the primaries or action by the state conventions would do so when the roll call was reached in the nomination of a candidate.

Neither did there seem to be any question but that Garner's, Wheeler's and Farley's names would be presented for consideration.

Out of the entire delegate vote, one shrewd observer said he believed as many as two hundred ballots would be distributed among the other candidates. The story should be told in another 24 hours.

It was an expectant colorful and voluble audience last night, moved at times to crackling applause by the vigor, the beauty, the logic, the philosophy and the militant fighting aggressiveness of Barkley's address, a gem in logic and analysis, delivered by one so amazingly gifted for the roll of one in front of the microphone. His squat, powerful figure, unconsciously adopting the position of a fighting man emphasized the ringing notes of his voice.

Campaign Keynotes.

One paragraph particularly reveals the bristling quality of that Barkley address. The "republicans" he said, "wanted a candidate not only of color but of a variety of colors. But while they wanted color, they did not desire a fast color. They seemed unwilling or afraid to nominate any man who had been a republican for more than two years, hence they chose a political chameleon —. . . ."The Philadelphia convention constituted the second charge of the light brigade in the heroic battle of kilowatt."

That was one, that second charge of the light brigade, which promises to echo and then re-echo throughout all of the weeks of this impending bitter political campaign.

Causes Demonstration.

Midway in his address Senator Barkley brought on a storm of demonstration, when departing from the text which had been prepared and distributed, he spoke of the gratitude of the American people, for "the greatest American, Franklin Roosevelt." It lasted for twenty-two minutes and brought on the traditional parade of the states. It terminated when Barkley, pounding the gavel vigorously and pleading to be heard, shouted that a woman had been seriously injured and a doctor was requested to go to the platform.

But in the sheer drama of the night something of the driving force of that discussion of foreign affairs by the permanent chairman escaped many thousands in the audience and may deceive the reader. For those who love liberty and believe that in its youth, its virility, its sweet faith and its spiritual devotion to cardinal principles of freedom, those words Alben Barkley shouted, emotion-choked words defining why free men fight will live long when liberty is imperiled. Under different circumstances, namely that the gathering had been other than the convention of a political party, and the audience an audience of followers of that party—those words would have engraved themselves upon the minds of all who heard them. They gave strength and meaning to men and women who love liberty.

STEEL OUTPUT REMAINS SAME

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Award for 49,000 tons of fabricated structural steel, largest week in more than a year, is a foretaste of what government buying means to the steel industry, "Iron Age" said today in a weekly survey.

"Not all of this, of course," the survey said, "is national defense work, but a considerable part of the bulge is accounted for by such projects.

Some steel companies, the survey noted, particularly those which concentrate on lighter products, reported a slight flattening out in orders in the past week. Output for the industry as a whole however, held unchanged at 87.5 per cent of capacity.

Minerva's Mail

TO BLONDIE

Before we begin on some questions that should be answered today, I want to ask Blondie, who wrote a letter to me a few days ago—to send me her name again —Somehow or other, quite unintentionally her letter was mislaid, and we have a request for her name—

Now for a few questions:

Dear Minerva: If an engagement has not been formally announced is it necessary to tell your friends that it has been broken? I think I read in your column once that the girl should write notes to her friends in such circumstances, but I can't remember exactly what you said.—LOU.

A. If your engagement has not been formally announced, and if you have received no engagement gifts from friends, then you need say nothing about it. The situation of which you read was slightly different. The young lady's engagement had been formally announced, and she had received some engagement gifts, and other gifts as well because the time of her wedding was drawing near before the betrothal was broken.

June: He just needs to be reminded of his manners, that is all —You probably open doors and get out of the car before he has a chance to think about doing those things—Next time don't touch a door, and sit in the car until he comes around to help you—A few things like that will straighten things out, I'm sure.

IMITATORS

Mother: You are absolutely correct. Your young daughter is old enough to learn how to do things nicely—But you must remember that children are great imitators—they do what they see others do, which means, of course, that the adults in your family must set a good example.

Ann: There is no reason why you shouldn't choose your engagement ring if you want to and if your fiance requests your assistance. I can easily understand why you wouldn't want to, I wouldn't either—but many girls do because the men feel so helpless and are so afraid the girl won't like the ring. That is something that you must decide for yourself.

* * *

B. R.: Why not compromise and go someplace where he can fish but where, also, there will be something you like to do? Perhaps he gets more real relaxation out of fishing than anything else and that is the reason he wants to take a fishing trip. There are many resorts where the men may have good fishing, but where entertainment for women is provided.

Fire Destroys Barn

(Special to the Star.)

HOLLENBERG, Kas., July 17—The farm on Emil Funk farm near here caught fire yesterday while the threshing crew was at dinner and was destroyed. Several head of mules and horses, 426 bushels of corn, 150 bushels of wheat, some lumber, harness, and other property, were lost. It is not known how the fire was started.

Nebraskans Say Wallace Okay For Second Spot

... On National Ticket

By JAMES E. LAWRENCE.
(Special Correspondence.)

CHICAGO, July 17—Chairman William A. Schall of Omaha was invited to attend a conference of Pennsylvania democratic leaders last night arrayed behind Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace as a candidate for the vice-presidency.

Both National Committeeman James C. Quigley and State Chairman Schall were invited to be present but a conflict in engagements made it impossible for Mr. Quigley to accept. The Wallace candidacy would not be unacceptable to Mr. Schall, the state chairman indicated, in the event that Governor Cochran's final decision was against permitting his name to be presented to the convention.

Naturally Mr. Schall and all other members of the delegation are strongly in support of Governor Cochran should he be a candidate. With the governor out of it, individual members of the Nebraska delegation said that Wallace's location as a citizen of a neighboring state, and his part in the farm program constitute a strong argument for support.

Olson Fumbles Ball.

One potential vice-presidential candidate, Governor Olson of California, who made an obvious effort to woo the Nebraska delegation will not get any support from it. The California executive, a witty and clever speaker, aroused some resentment among the Nebraskans who were playing host to him by remarks which he made in his Omaha speech.

If ultimately the ticket returns to President Roosevelt for renomination, and to John Garner again as his running mate, and the shifting tides yesterday seem to give some credence to the reports that was what it would be, with Jim Farley remaining as national chairman, there would be no opposition among the Nebraska delegates. It particularly was anxious for Chairman Farley to remain in his position.

Individual members of the delegation have called personally upon Farley to urge him to reverse his reputed plan to step down. Frank C. Walker, said to be the choice for the post, is well known and is most acceptable to the Nebraskans. The feeling is, however, that any man stepping into the job now would face a difficult task of carrying out the labors which have fallen upon Mr. Farley for eight years.

Farley May Quit As Demo Leader But He's Not Bitter

... Middle Name Should Be Loyalty, Corum Says

By BILL CORUM

CHICAGO, July 17—(INS)—James A. Farley ("Jim" to his friends and his friends are practically Mr. and Mrs. A. L. L. America) put his arm across our shoulder as we walked with him down the steps from the democratic headquarters in the Stevens hotel.

"Bill," he asked, "are you having a good time here?"

"I'd like it better," I told him, "if they'd ring the bell for the main event. The boys are punching the bag too much. They're in shape right now. You only have to listen to 'em a little while to know that their wind's all right."

"Well," he said, flashing that big Irish smile, "I'm having a lot of fun."

Not Bitter or Resentful.

That didn't sound like a man who was bitter and resentful, and certainly he didn't look like such a man. The truth is that Jim Farley wouldn't know how to carry resentment. Furthermore his middle name should have been Loyalty instead of Aloysius.

I mention that to make clear that if the republicans are looking for any hope and succor from him after he steps out of the high councils of the democratic party here this week-end, they're the "succors."

Jim's a democrat. He may be stepping out as national chairman of the party at a bad time for the party. My own unimportant guess is that he is. Still, the democrats can't be needing him worse than the Yankees.

Second Fiddle to New Dealers.

I can't think of much he can do to help Joe McCarthy's team right now, except to put on a uniform and go back to playing first base. Which might please him better than playing second fiddle to some of the New Dealers to whom he seems to think he has been playing second fiddle.

Now getting back to Farley. He was saying in a more serious vein now:

"I want to tell you how I feel about something. I feel that it is a great honor for a man like Carter Glass to come here and be willing to present my name to this convention. It makes me proud and happy."

And it should. It is a great honor. Don't forget that Jim Farley was born on the other side of the river from President Roosevelt. All that he has, all that he has made of himself, Jim Farley alone has made.

Blast Kills Five

BARKLEY BEGS FOR QUIET AS DEMOCRATS DEMONSTRATE

Eleanor Ann Clizbe To Wed C. C. White

. . . GUESTS, VACATIONISTS IN NEWS

THE ROMANTIC TOUCH in our column today comes from Valentine, and it will be of interest to campus groups of the 1933-37 vintage—to Chi Omegas, especially, Mortar Boards and Innocents—

For today we have the wedding plans of Miss Eleanor Ann Clizbe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Duane Clizbe of Valentine, whose marriage to Clyde C. White will take place on Sunday, July 28, at the Second Presbyterian church in Lincoln.

The service will be read by Rev. Thomas E. Barton, and Miss Clizbe has chosen for her attendants her sister, Miss Eilzabeth Clizbe, who will be her maid of honor, and the Misses Frances Meier, Jeanne Meier, both of Lincoln and cousins of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Coan of Lafayette, Ind., as bridesmaids.

Chester Walters of Wayne will be Mrs. White's best man, and the ushers will include Howard White of Chicago; Myrle White, Columbus, and John White of Stella.

Both Miss Clizbe and Mr. White were graduated from the University of Nebraska in the class of 1937. Miss Clizbe is a member of Chi Omega sorority, and also of Mortar Board, honorary society for senior women. Mr. White is a member of Farm House fraternity, is an Innocent and played on the varsity football team. Both were prominent in campus activities.

SPEAKING of weddings—we hear that Herbert Grainger, brother of Richard Grainger of Lincoln, and nephew of Harry K., and J. John Grainger, will be married soon to Miss Velma Saner of Hollywood, Cal.

Miss Saner stopped in Lincoln a short time ago for a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grainger, en route to New York City where the wedding will take place.

Mr. Grainger is associated with the United Air Lines.

THE REST of the day's news has to do with travelers, and guests and bridge—

Understand that Dr. and Mrs. O. V. Calhoun and their children, Jane Ann, Mary Lou, and David, returned Tuesday evening after a two weeks' vacation spent at Piney Ridge, Minn.

ARRIVING last evening from Norman, Okla., to be the house guest of Mrs. Fay McDonald, was Mrs. Florence Black.

FOUND SOME other guests, too—Mrs. Ray Williams and her daughter, Patricia, of Los Angeles, are the house guests of Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Richard Grainger, and Mr. Grainger.

AN INTERESTING guest who was in town over the week-end was Miss Marjorie Souders of New York City, who came to Lincoln from Auburn where she had been visiting relatives. During her stay in Lincoln Miss Souders was the house guest of Miss Margaret Straub. She was the honoree at a dinner Saturday evening for which Dick Smith was host at the University club.

AND TODAY was ladies' bridge day at the Lincoln Country club and Broadview club—Foursome reservations for luncheon and bridge at the L. C. C. were made by Mrs. L. L. Coryell, sr., Mrs. Ervin Rucklos, Mrs. Lester M. Buckley, Mrs. Herbert Potter, Mrs. W. E. Hardy, Mrs. S. A. Foster, Mrs. E. M. O'Shea, and Mrs. Will Raymond.

Mrs. H. F. Hovland had a table for eight, and Mrs. George Cook a reservation for three.

WE WERE TOLD that there were sixty-five reservations for luncheon and bridge at Broadview club today.

APROPOS OF country club affairs—It seems that the pool at the Lincoln Country club has been drained, but will be open for business by Thursday noon.

Miss Neva Annetta Vettel Is Bride Of Richard Johnsen

MISS NEVA ANNETTA VETTEL became the bride of Richard Max Johnsen, of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnsen, of Cordova, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Vettel, in Bismarck, N. D., at a high noon ceremony Sunday. Members of the families and close friends composed the group of nineteen present for the service, which was read by the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. Chester W. Hamblin.

The altar was improvised of two large baskets of delphinium and Sweet William and two seven branch candelabra on either side. Roses and other summer flowers were used in the rooms.

Miss Phyllis Wahl played "Clair de Lune" as a prelude and the Lohengrin wedding music.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Howard R. Hughes, of Bismarck. She wore brown net daytime frock with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white asters and roses.

Miss LaVerne Bertsck, of Bismarck, served as bridesmaid. With her frock of brown sheer she had a corsage of pink and white asters and roses. Her accessories were in white.

The best man was Mr. Hughes.

Escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride had chosen an original model of turquoise jersey with brown accessories. She wore a gold pin which had been a part of her mother's and grandmother's costume at their weddings. Mrs. Johnsen's flowers were tea-roses and baby breath.

For the reception, the refreshment table was centered with a tiered cake and bowls of roses were used elsewhere in decorating. The bride was served from a plate which was used by her great great grandmother, great grandmother, grandmother, and mother. Mrs. George Hegstad and Mrs. Ann S. Nielsen assisted.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnsen have gone to the badlands, Yellowstone park, and the Tetons on their wedding trip. She is traveling in a Bemberg sheer print of turquoise, brown, and white. after August 1, the couple will live at 1233 K street, Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Christiansen and son, Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wallen, were Lincoln guests at the marriage.

Miss Viola Lemmermen Weds Vincent Jacobsen

The marriage service for Miss Viola Lemmermen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo I'Heureaux, of Campbell, and Vincent Jacobsen, of Ainsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jacobsen, of Albion, took place Saturday evening at the Trinity Lutheran church near Campbell. The Rev. M. W. Tieman officiated before an altar decorated with lattice entwined with summer flowers.

Miss Selma Wieland, of Lincoln, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Lydia Robert, of Riverdale, Miss Elaine Deyke and Miss Harriet Langland, both of Lincoln, and Miss Hazel Rippen, of Red Cloud.

Mrs. Jacobsen attended the University of Nebraska.

Miss Eleanor Collier Weds Meredith Rennick

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Collier, of Stapleton, and Meredith Rennick, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Rennick, of Pilger, which took place at the Kimball July 11, the Rev. C. P. Pebler of the Evangelical Lutheran church officiated.

The bride wore blue in a jacket costume with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Rennick will live near Pilger.

Both have attended the University of Nebraska.

Cole Bros. Circus Here July 22

OTTO GRIEBLING AND TWO LITTLE ADMIRERS

Cole Bros. circus combined with Ken Maynard's Wild West Exhibition, will show in Lincoln Monday, July 22. Two performances will be given, at 2 and 8 p. m., with the huge menagerie open to patrons one hour ahead of the starting time.

The circus has been all newly built as a result of the recent disaster in winter quarters. Over 250 internationally famous acts and features travel with the show this season and among the headliners are the Brannock troupe of acrobats, the Rieffenach family of bareback riders, the Escalante troupe of aerialists, the Gonzales family of wirewalkers, the Skating Rockets from Oslo, Norway, Weber Bros. and Chattita, acrobats, and the customary lineup of clowns, this year fifty in number, headed by Otto Griebling.

New wild animals from India, Africa, and Singapore, together with specimens from the various zoos in America have been added to the menagerie.

Uniform State Seed Law to Be Considered Here

Brome grass and a proposed uniform state seed law are expected to highlight discussion at the second annual Nebraska seedsmen's shortcourse in Lincoln next week, according to R. C. Kinch, seed analyst at the state department of agriculture and inspection.

The conference will open Tuesday in the animal husbandry judging pavilion at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture. Wednesday's session will be in the agronomy laboratory at the college; and Thursday and Friday's meetings will be in the state seed laboratory at the capitol building.

Last year around 50 seedsmen attended the first shortcourse of its type in Lincoln. Most of them came from eastern Nebraska, but this year a group more representative of the entire state is expected.

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY

One of medicine's most effective weapons against infectious diseases—the fever machine—came into being entirely by accident. Men working near an experimental high-power short-wave radio transmitter complained of headaches and general physical depression. An examination showed they were suffering from fever caused by high-frequency radiations.

Coincidentally, a Viennese physician found that general paresis could be cured by creating fever through maleria innoculations. High-frequency fever was substituted.

Willkie Says Roosevelt To Accept Draft

Asserts He Would Rather Run Against F.D.R. Than Any Other Demo

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 17—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, predicting that President Roosevelt would receive and accept a third-term nomination, renewed today his declaration that he would rather run against the president than any other democrat.

Willkie said that the chief executive was the best representative of the New Deal side of the coming campaign and that he would like to have a fight against him.

Willkie, sitting on a couch in his hotel apartment, listened by radio last night to Senator Alben W. Barkley's talk accepting the chairmanship of the democratic convention. He yawned several times, lay back occasionally on heavy green-striped pillows and thumbed through newspapers and a book.

When Barkley ended his talk with the statement that President Roosevelt "has never had and has not today any desire or purpose to continue in the office of president," Willkie dictated this comment to reporters:

Repeats Prediction.

"I'll make the same prediction I made the other night—that the president will be renominated on the first ballot and will accept the nomination."

Barkley's address, Willkie said was "all defensive but a reasonably good defensive talk."

During the convention demonstration that followed Barkley's mention of Mr. Roosevelt, Willkie turned to reporters in his suite and said, "I think my worries are over." He added that he always had wanted to run against the president and that it appeared the chief executive would be the nominee.

BRAIN TWIZZLERS

By Prof. J. D. Flint

The travelling Twizzlers are aboard a luxury liner, headed for a holiday. A curious problem came up while waiting for the ship to pull out of the harbor. One of the Twizzlers was leaning over the rail watching the pilot come aboard. He noticed that the bottom of the lowest rung of the ladder which the pilot came up just touched the water. It was then low tide. He then started talking to an officer who stood nearby and learned the statistics of tidal rise and fall and from that he rightly figured that the water rises seven feet and three inches before reaching high tide. Each of the rungs of the ladder was three-quarters of an inch thick and there was a one-foot space between rungs. From this information the Twizzler went to work on the number of rungs that would be under water at high tide. What is the number?

Answer To Yesterday's Twizzler.

BYOIR CLEARED OF PATMAN CHARGE OF UN-AMERICANISM

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—A justice department official said today that an investigation of Carl Byoir, New York publicist, had "disclosed no evidence whatever that he has been engaged in any un-American activities" as charged in the house by Rep. Patman (D.-Tex.) June 11.

"No basis for action has been found and the case is regarded as closed," the official said.

Patman charged that "the evidence is sufficient to convince anyone that Lieut. Col. Carl Byoir was hired to establish here in the United States the greatest espionage and spy system ever organized on the face of the earth."

Byoir said in a statement that he was "most happy" over the outcome of the investigation and added that "Mr. Patman, of course, had attacked me in the hope of discrediting some of the opposition to his now dead chain store tax bill which I frankly opposed as a public relations counsel."

Inter-Civic Tourney Thursday; Awards To Be Made at Banquet

Plans have been completed for the inter-civic golf and horse shoe tournament which will be held at Broadview club Thursday afternoon. A committee of 18, including members from the Co-operative, Knife and Fork, Cosmopolitan and Optimist clubs, will be in charge.

Dr. F. T. Wright, Optimist, is general chairman, and will preside at the evening banquet when awards will be made.

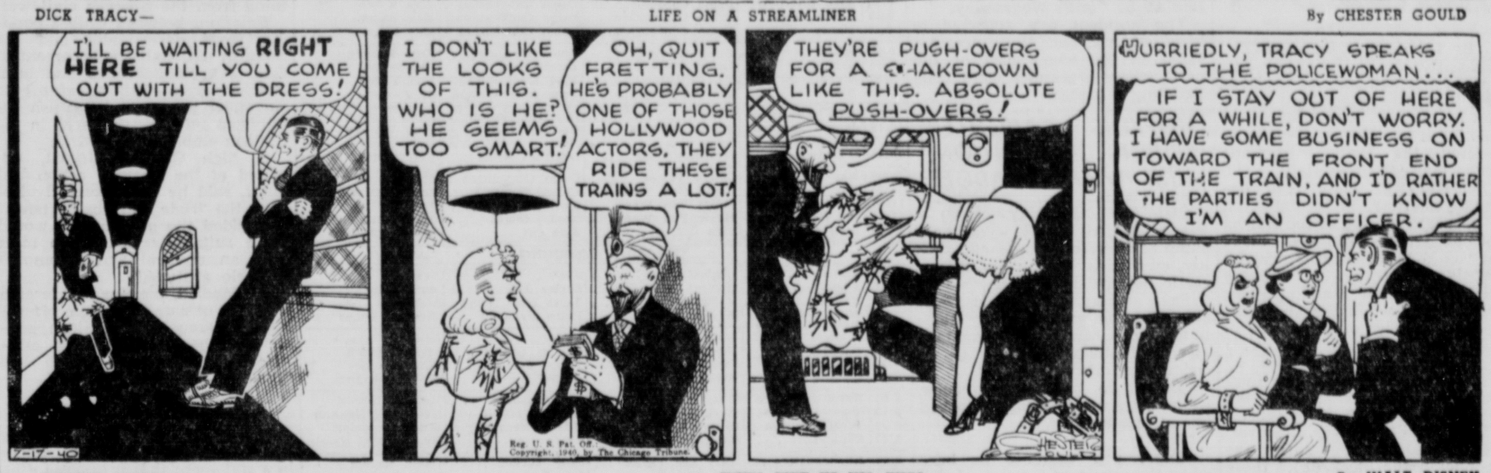

Dr. E. R. Ryerson, Knife and Fork, is golf chairman. Ralph Park, Optimist, will be in charge of horse shoe; Dr. E. B. Brooks, Optimist, entertainment; and John Chapman, Knife and Fork, awards.

The golf scoring will be on the basis of the best eight players on a team, with some clubs having as high as 15 entries. The Optimist club holds the trophy now, and the Co-operatives are expected to give them a good run.

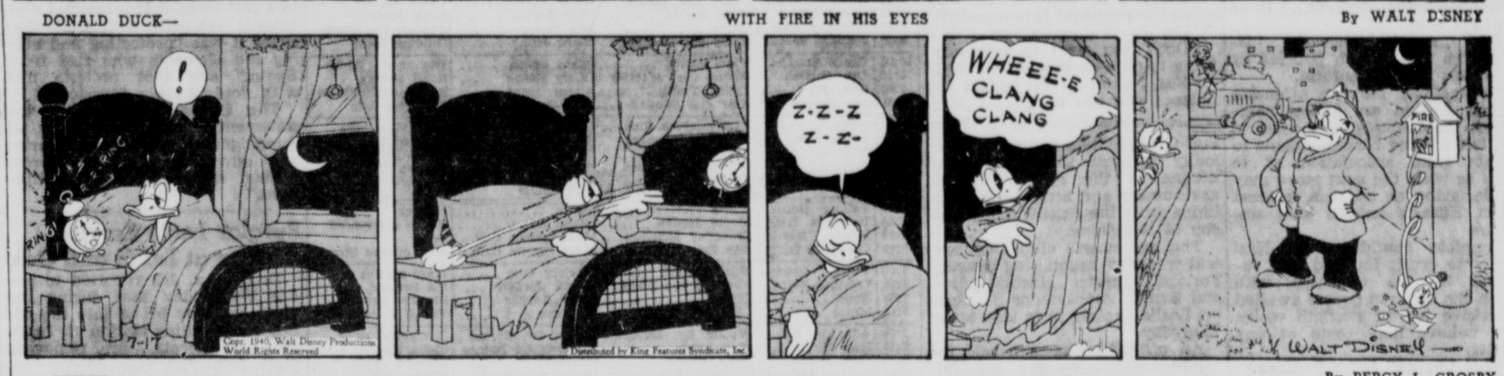

Golf will start at 1:30, horse shoe at 3:30, dinner will be served at 6:30, followed by special entertainment.

Knox Fairground Grandstand Burns

The loss was estimated at $2,000 to $3,000. The building was insured. It had a seating capacity of 2,000. Firemen said they thought a glowing cigaret stub might have started the blaze. They arrived in time to prevent the flames from spreading to other nearby fairgrounds buildings.

The building blew down 12 years ago but had been rebuilt.

HULL MUST CONDEMN BLOCKADE

. . . GERMANS ASSERT

Ultimatum To England Expected Soon From Hitler; Nazis Await Attack Order

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.

BERLIN, July 17—(AP)—Authorized German sources declared today that if Secretary Hull means what he says about keeping world trade lanes open he must logically condemn the British blockade against Germany and Italy.

(Secretary of State Hull declared yesterday, in comment on the proposed closing of the Burma road by Great Britain—a move that would favor Japan's oriental campaign by cutting that Chinese lifeline—that the United States "has a legitimate interest in keeping open arteries of commerce in every part of the world . . .")

Violates Freedom of Sea

The British blockade, the Germans held, is in violation of the principle of freedom of the seas.

"We don't dare to say, however, that he (Hull) will go so far (as to condemn the blockade)," these quarters said.

They noted, however, that American and British policies by no means always conform.

Preparations for the offensive against Britain are almost completed, these sources continued to say, but warned correspondents to refrain from speculation as to when or what the next move may be, declaring no one can forecast Adolf Hitler's actions and decisions.

Complete confidence in Nazi ability to crush England was reflected in the calmness with which the German people awaited a decisive test of strength which they believe may come at any minute.

"Last Chance" Offer Pending.

(Dispatches from Rome quoted German sources as saying Hitler might deliver an ultimatum to Britain within a few days in a speech before the reichstag. Reports continued to circulate that Italian Foreign Minister Ciano might go to Berlin Thursday or Friday to discuss with Hitler the terms of a "last chance" peace offer.)

Yugoslavia, meanwhile, was sharply reproved by both the German press and political circles for permitting what they described as a pro-French demonstration in Belgrade with apparent official approval.

Britain Agrees.

TOKYO, July 17—(AP)—The foreign office announced tonight that Great Britain had agreed formally to close the Burma road lifeline of the central Chinese government and arms traffic into China from the British crown colony of Hongkong.

The agreement, climaxing several weeks of negotiating between Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita and British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, is to take effect Thursday.

An official spokesman said the arrangement embraced the following:

That Hongkong, as of Jan. 1 last year, prohibited the transport of arms toward China and tomorrow will ban the movement of gasoline, trucks, railway equipment and "other materials."

That munitions and war materials entering China via the Burma road will be halted for three months, after which new arrangements will be made.

That British authorities in Burma and Hongkong contact Japanese consular authorities and arrange the method of putting the measures into effect.

Yakichiro Suma, Japanese foreign office spokesman, declined to comment directly on United States Secretary of State Hull's pronouncement of United States interest in world commercial routes, adding that "the agreement concluded between Japan and Great Britain does not concern any third power."

Wagon Upsets, Man Is Seriously Hurt

. . . At Pioneers Park

The injured man was rushed by ambulance to St. Elizabeth hospital where he was attended by Dr. T. F. McCarthy. The physician said injuries include six broken ribs and various body bruises, several of which were quite severe. His condition was said to be "fair" Wednesday.

The accident was reported to have occurred near the concession stand in the lower part of the park where workmen were constructing a bridge.

HOPKINS' DAUGHTER SPURNS CONVENTION; JUST WANTS BADGES

She's staying at a farm just outside Chicago and talks by telephone with her daddy, Secretary Harry Hopkins, during lulls in convention maneuvering.

"Diana, do you want to come to the convention?" Hopkins asked her at one time.

"No!"

"Don't you want to be here when the president is nominated?"

"No."

"Don't you want to have anything to do with this convention?"

"Yes, I want all the badges and buttons you can find."

Presents Credentials

CANBERRA, Australia, July 17—(AP)—Clarence E. Gauss, first United States minister to Australia, presented his credentials today to Lord Gowrie, governor general of the commonwealth.

Lord Gowrie said "it is a matter of greatest gratification to the Australian government that the first diplomatic exchange undertaken by his majesty on behalf of Australia should be with the United States."

Gauss replied he would do his "utmost to draw closer the friendly ties between the two countries."

Americans Liberal

LONDON, July 17—(AP)—The London depot for American gifts for civilian relief has assembled 75,000 garments, knitted some 30,000 pounds of wool into wearing apparel and made up about 60 miles of dress goods into clothing since opening last February, it was announced.

The United States has an estimated 3,500,000 aliens.

Mild Marks

More mild midsummer temperatures—but without much moisture—was reported over Nebraska Wednesday.

Tuesday highs ranged in the upper 80s and lower 90s, and Wednesday morning lows ranged from 63 at Sidney to 75 at Grand Island and Valentine. It was 73 at downtown Lincoln and 72 at the airport.

The Lincoln bureau reported a trace of precipitation Wednesday morning, while Cheyenne had .17.

Three Enlist

Richard E. Jameson, 2444 South Ninth, John O. Conaway, 2933 North Fifty-first, and Lester Schimmel, 2801 North Forty-eighth, have been accepted for enlistment in the U. S. army and sent to Randolph Field, Tex., to join the air corps.

Seventy per cent of the estimated 2,600,000 crippled persons in the United States above the age of 15 are males.

. . . Nomination And Acceptance Predicted

"Talks things over," said Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago

"Do your own guessing," suggested Paul V. McNutt, a contender for the vice presidential nomination.

The place was Hopkins' hotel room. The time was not long after Senator Barkley of Kentucky had told the democratic national convention that Mr. Roosevelt "has never had, and has not today, any desire or purpose to continue in the office of president."

"It doesn't matter what the president says—he belongs to the American people," commented Mayor Kelly.

In front, behind or to one side of the Chicago mayor, in addition to those already mentioned, were Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Attorney General Jackson, Senators Byrnes of South Carolina, Pepper of Florida, Hill of Alabama and Murray of Montana, Gov. Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, Mayor Bernard Dickman of St. Louis, and Charles Sawyer, Ohio national committeeman.

The commerce secretary predicted that Mr. Roosevelt would be nominated tonight and would accept.

Spain Breaks Relations With Chilean Regime

Chile Refused Surrender Spanish Refugees In Madrid Embassy

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 17—(AP)—Spain has severed diplomatic relations with Chile after more than a year of dispute stemming from the Spanish civil war.

Relations between Chile's popular front government and the Spanish nationalist government of Gen. Francisco Franco had been strained over Chile's refusal to surrender a group of Spanish republican refugees sheltered in the Chilean embassy in Madrid.

A high Chilean official, apprised of the Spanish action last night, said he could scarcely believe the "rude and absurd news" but added the government would "take suitable measures to meet such an unusual and incomprehensible attitude."

(In Madrid, the Spanish foreign ministry declared it broke off relations because the Chilean government had permitted an antinationalist campaign which had "reached intolerable limits."

Madrid Explanation.

MADRID, July 17—(AP)—The Spanish government said today in a statement that it severed diplomatic relations with Chile because it was "protecting and aiding red elements who fled from Spain," and that protests met with "only hostile invasions."

The Chilean government, the statement said, is "supporting all campaigns of impudences, injuries and grossnesses in the press against our nation and institutions."

Burglar Loots Service Station at Tenth and Oak

D. D. Cox, Jr., reported to police Wednesday that during the night someone broke into the office of his filling station at Tenth and Oak streets, by removing glass from the rear door.

He said the thief took $10.11 worth of merchandise, at wholesale prices. He listed among the articles missing a box and a half of cigars, 4 cartons and three separate packages of cigarets, 18 sacks of tobacco, 6 cans of tobacco, 18 bottles of pop, a box of gum, and 15 pennies.

Railroads now own or operate more automobile trucks than locomotives.

WINDMILL vs. POWERHOUSE

HENRY ARMSTRONG.

LEW JENKINS.

Henry Armstrong, the welterweight king, meets Lew Jenkins, ruler of the lightweight ranks, in an over-the-weight, non-title 12-rounder in the Polo Grounds tonight. The fighters are scheduled to go into action at 7:45 o'clock Lincoln time. Station KMA (Shenandoah, Ia., 9:30 Kilocycles), will radio the blow-by-blow account of the battle.

JUNIOR LEAGUERS.

Hobart Hayes, 14-year-old Hotel Lincoln pitcher, was the sensation of Legion Junior baseball play at Lincoln high's field Tuesday afternoon as he set Lawlors down with only one hit while his mates registered an 11 to 4 win.

Hayes struck out 11 batsmen and scored two runs for his share. Berquist's single in the sixth was the only safety he allowed. The score:

By PAT ROBINSON.

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—If Yankee and Red Sox fans haven't abandoned hope for their favorites, it is only because neither the Tigers nor Indians have shown the consistent drive expected of a prospective pennant winner. Here's an American league flag simply begging for some team to step up and take it, but the four first-division outfits continue to flounder as if they wanted no part of the fat world series check in the fall.

Too Much Rigney.

The Yanks bowed yesterday, 5-1, to the six-hit pitching of Johnny Rigney of the White Sox; the Tigers dropped their series to the Athletics when George Caster outpitched Fred Hutchinson for a 3-1 decision, and the Senators made a clean sweep of their series with the Indians by crushing the Clevelanders, 11-8.

The Indians were leading, 7-2, going into the last half of the sixth when the aroused Senators fell on some inept pitching for seven runs and the ball game. The Red Sox and Browns were idle.

While the Reds and the Phils were being rained out yesterday in the National league, the Dodgers were being knocked off by the Pirates, 5 to 3. The Dodgers gave Tex Carleton a three-run lead, but he couldn't hold it.

Blanks For Giants.

Vern Olsen pitched a six-hit 2-0 shutout over the slipping Giants. Harry Gumbert gave the Cubs only four hits, but one of these was Phil Cavaretta's game-winning hit with the bags fully tenanted. This same agile gentleman saved the shutout with a great play when the Giants once filled the bags.

The Cardinals said it with homers to beat the Bees, 4-3. Two homers by Enos Slaughter and Johnny Mize's No. 24 gave Lefty Shoun the decision over Sailor Bill Posedel.

Heart Attack Snuffs Life of Boxer In Ring

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—Heart failure was blamed by officials today for the death of Pete Asero, 20, welterweight, who suddenly collapsed and died while boxing Pete Muscarnera in the fourth round of a scheduled six-round bout. Physicians worked over him a half hour in the ring, but failed to revive him.

T. J. Halligan, president of the Michigan State league, issued a public statement in defense of erring infielders of the circuit. Halligan called attention to the fact that the league is new and so are the diamonds. "They're diamonds in the rough," said the prexy.

PROVES PUNCH STILL IN STOCK

Dempsey Hasn't Lost His Ability Sock 'Em To Sleep.

WASHINGTON, July 17—(INS)—Col. Harvey L. Miller, president of the National Boxing association, declared today that Jack Dempsey could successfully stage a comeback for the world heavyweight championship—if he "hits 'em."

Godoy Bout In Prospect.

Miller's statement was made in commenting on reports that the 45-year-old Dempsey is planning to meet Chilean Arturo Godoy this fall, after a summer of mitt "exhibitions" against wrestlers.

The Manassa mauler recently knocked out Wrestler Cowboy Luttrell at Atlanta, Ga. The meeting caused something of a controversy in fistic circles, many protesting against the making of the match, and refusing to see it as the forerunner of a comeback by a great champion.

Punch, Not Age, Counts.

Miller, however, refused to accept the view that champions can't come back. He declined to speculate on the chances of "Old-Man" Dempsey against Heavyweight King Joe Louis, but he did observe:

"Forty-five years is pretty old, but it has been done before and can be done again. Jack Britton, the welterweight titleholder, and Bob Fitzsimmons both fought successfully when they were Dempsey's age.

"It's not the age as much as it is what the fighter has left. Jack Still has his punch and probably can hit as hard as most of the men in the ring today."

As to N. B. A. recognition, Miller said that the association has no limits and would look upon Dempsey as champion if he won the title from accredited fighters. He concluded:

"If Jack is really serious, I think he can do it if he hits them."

Pair From East Hills Victor Over Broadview

The golf feud involving the pros and assistant pros of the Broadview and East Hills courses had its finis Wednesday morning at Broadview, where Roy Anderson and Bernie Mortensen, representing East Hills, downed Les Davies and George Morales of Broadview, 5 and 4. The East Hills pair's victory duplicated their success of a week ago on the East Hills course.

Here is a scoop on next year's record book: Lubbock, in the West Texas-New Mexico league, beat Clovis 27 to 5, and scored 18 of the runs in one inning, the sixth. Twenty-one men batted.

Paul Campbell beat Art Mahan out of the first base job at Louisville this spring. So the Colonels sold Mahan to the Phils and the latter is now one of the 1940 rookie sensations.

Texan Facing Toughest Test

SARAZEN GANG TRAILING NOW

Gene's Golfers Win Only One Match In Four From Hagenmen.

DETROIT, July 17 — (INS) — The usual jovial countenance of Gene Sarazen was stern today as his Ryder cup challengers trailed, 3 to 1, after the first day's play against Walter Hagen's Ryder cup outfit in a tournament for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

Looks Hopefully to Singles.

Sarazen, however, was hopeful that in the singles matches at the Oakland Hills course today, his lads, who include the cream of the American professional golf crop, could atone for yesterday's trouncings.

The lineups for the 36-hole singles matches today follow, with Ryder Cuppers mentioned first: Sam Snead vs. Ben Hogan; Dick Metz vs. Jimmy Demaret; Henry Picard vs. Gene Sarazen; Ralph Guldahl vs. Craig Wood; Horton Smith vs. Lawson Little; Byron Nelson vs. Billy Burke; Jimmy Hines vs. Ed Oliver; Victor Ghezzi vs. Harry Cooper.

Foursome Results.

In the other foursomes, Henry Picard and Dick Metz defeated Ed Oliver and Harry Cooper, 5 and 4; Horton Smith and Paul Runyan defeated Craig Wood and Billy Burke, 2 up; Byron Nelson and Harold McSpaden swamped Tommy Armour and Jimmy Thomson, 8 and 7.

Seemann Loses Place As All-Star Leader

CHICAGO, July 17 — (AP) — Football stars from the mid-west still held a wide edge today in the latest tabulation of votes in the nationwide poll to select an All-Star college squad to meet the Green Bay Packers in Soldier Field Aug. 29. The voting ends July 23. A squad of 22 players will be named to play the pro champions in the annual grid spectacle. The two leaders at each position follow:

Ends—Esco Sarkkinen, Ohio State 84,147; Lorry Lorentz, Illinois college, 43,288.

Venturesome Golfer Rescued By Firemen

Nearly 500 persons watched last night as firemen worked in the glare of powerful searchlights for two hours to rescue the climber.

Armstrong said he didn't have any trouble until he hit the last 10 yards, then he couldn't move either way.

P. S.—He found the ball.

FIGHT NEWS ON AIR.

A description of the 12-round non-title bout between Lew Jenkins and Henry Armstrong Wednesday night at New York City will be broadcast, blow-by-blow, over the NBC blue network and KMA (930 kilos) starting at 7:45 o'clock. Sam Taub and Bill Stern will be at the mike.

Hard Hitting Cowboy Fighter Slated to Go Against Dark Man In Mitten Melee.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, July 17—Lew Jenkins, the hollow-eyed little Texan with the murderous punch, receives his great testing tonight when he fights Henry Armstrong, the welterweight champion, at the Polo Grounds.

It is just a year since Jenkins, looking none too well fed, made his first appearance in New York. An unbroken string of triumphs behind him and bulwarked by many a $2 steak, he enters the ring tonight as the lightweight champion of the world, possibly to prove that he is one of the greatest little scrappers that ever has been.

One More Mountain.

His rise has been meteoric, but he has this one more mountain to cross before the present generation of experts can say "Okay, Lew, you're the best we've seen," and before the old-timers admit him to their Hall of Memories along with Joe Gans and Benny Leonard.

If Jenkins does beat the bull-chested Armstrong tonight, then he's really good, fellows. For Armstrong, even though he might be a year or so past his very best, still is an awful lot of fighting man. A year ago (remember) we were calling him so many kinds of great fighter that there hardly were enough adjectives to go around.

Bookies Favor Hennery.

It should be a great bout tonight, and a man could make himself a lot of money if he knew the winner for sure. Personally, Armstrong looks the better bet, and the bookmakers still have him a substantial favorite. It's difficult to picture a skinny, rawboned boy like Jenkins absorbing Henry's body punishment for 12 rounds. Still, the Texan has that punch, and Armstrong never has been hard to hit.

Armstrong will have a few pounds weight advantage, though not enough to really matter. The title of neither is at stake. Without risking more than a few lumps, each of them is assured of a very handsome purse, for Promoter Mike Jacobs expects the gate to total around $160,000, granted clear weather.

Texan Covets Ranch.

With his share of this one, Jenkins should be able to make a substantial payment on that Texas ranch he's been talking about, even after his numerous managers have taken their cut. Armstrong, a saving little cuss, is accounted well off financially, so nothing that might happen to him tonight would be too tragic.

Jenkins apparently has trained better than Armstrong. The 135-pound champ is lean and hard and he pounded his spar mates viciously while he was up at training camp, before his pretty wife went up there three days ago and brought him back to the city. Mrs. Jenkins is feuding with one of Lew's managers, Hymie Caplin.

Bopped By Sparmates.

Armstrong has not worked too hard and visitors to his camp have commented on the ease with which his hired boys have been bopping him around. However, Hennery always has appeared to be more interested in thinking up a few lines of new poetry than in training when he gets up in the woods, so the present symptoms are not too alarming. Henry is strictly a money fighter.

It all simmers down to whether Jenkins can catch the powerful little negro with his Sunday punch and stretch him out, like he did Lou Ambers, before Armstrong's body attack saps the Texan's strength. If it goes the limit, Armstrong should win for sure.

Brass Tacks by "Cy" Sherman

Chicago Sports Ed. Vents Peeve

QUERY: Could it be possible that a sport's editor peeve lugs sufficient punch to keep Champion Joe Louis' next title fight out of the city of Chicago?

The interrogation, as a matter of course, demands an explanation, so here goes:

Sports Editor Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune is so disgusted or incensed—take your choice—at a ruling by the Illinois boxing commission that he has erased the Windy City from consideration as the possible scene of the forthcoming Louis-Max Baer battle for the heavyweight championship.

Listen in, now, as I'm quoting —word for word—Editor Ward's published comment in the Monday Trib:

Pokes Fight Board With Sharp Stick

"CHICAGO may be spared as the scene of the Louis-Baer championship fight after all . . . The ridiculous decision of the Illinois Athletic commission in the Harry Thomas case amused even Promoter Mike Jacobs, who now hesitates to go through with the match at Comiskey park in September . . . "What's the matter with those fellows out there?" was Jacobs' reaction to the strange verdict in the strange investigation conducted by Messrs. Triner, Clark and Fitzpatrick . . . If there was an answer to Mr. Jacobs' question, we might know what is wrong with professional boxing in Illinois . . . Decisions such as the Illinois Athletic commission returned last Monday contribute nothing to the public's faith in the integrity of the sport . . . A new commission, of course, might help."

Any doubt pertaining to the dimensions of the Ward peeve is dispelled by the final sentence of the Tribune writer's comment—he boldly hints that the state of Illinois should have a new athletic commission.

Swore To Charges In Affidavit

WHAT'S it all about? The record is an open book. The Harry Thomas mentioned in the Ward broadside is the Minnesota heavyweight fighter who, several months ago, made affidavit in which he swore that his bouts with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento—the one in New York and the other in Philadelphia—were pre-arranged.

In other words, he made oath it was necessary for him to agree to "take a dive in the tank," else neither the pride of the nazis nor the human beerkeg would like him on.

Yes, the Thomas affidavit, first published in the Trib, had that fishy smell. Imagine, if you can, a former world champion (Schmeling) and a recent challenger for Louis' title (Galento) being so fearful of a third or fourth-rater of the Thomas type that they or their managers would demand a pre-arranged "fix."

Be that as it may, Sports Editor Ward evidently placed full credence in the truth of the Thomas indictment of the fight game. Then followed an investigation by the Illinois commission, the members of which summoned Thomas to give verbal testimony.

Fighter Closes Up Like Oyster

ALTHOUGH the Minnesota ringman spared no details in the allegations set forth in his affidavit, he suddenly closed tight as an oyster, refusing to testify on the professed ground that, by talking further, he might lay himself liable to criminal prosecution in the state of New York, scene of the Schmeling bout.

Meantime, the managers of the fighters involved denied in toto the Thomas charges, their statements being buttressed by the bout referees, both of whom asserted that the fights in question were above suspicion and that Thomas was well whipped on merit.

The investigation launched by the Illinois commissioners dragged for months and, in view of the complete lack of verbal testimony to verify the Thomas version, the fight board finally came down with an official verdict of "no faith" in the Minnesota man's claims.

Scribe Left To Hold The Sack

EFFECT of the fighter's silence, plus the subsequent commission's action, is to plant the Tribune scribbler out on the end of the limb. In other words, leave him to hold the sack.

Hence the Ward peeve; also his apparent desire to drive the proposed Louis-Baer fight out of Chicago as the only means of vindication which seems to be in sight.

Meantime, I'm more or less curious concerning the attitude of the business interests of Chicago, especially the hotel men of the Windy City, toward the Ward peeve.

A Louis-Baer glove brawl unquestionably would attract many thousands of visitors—fight fans who could be expected to peel the bankroll and drop substantial bundles of currency in Chicago money boxes.

Wherefore I am asking: Are the business interests of the Windy City willing to go along with the Ward peeve to the point that they shall deny themselves getting hooks on the swag that accrues from a world championship fight? We shall see just what we see!

HUSKER YOUTH COMING HOME

Bill Conner, Bayard High Boy, Intends Enroll At Nebraska.

By "CY" SHERMAN.

The urge that pulls former Nebraska athletes back to the "old home state" will add another promising track and field performer to the ranks of the Cornhusker freshman squad in September.

Coming From California.

Head Track Coach Ed Weir of Nebraska U. announced Wednesday that he has been in recent receipt of letters from Bill Conner, former Bayard, Neb., high school boy, in which the ex-Bayard lad declared his intention to enroll at the university this fall. Conner was at Sacramento, Cal., junior college during the past year, where he developed exceptional class in both the quarter and half-mile events.

Conner's case duplicates the experiences of Gene Littler and Bill Arnot, both of whom migrated to California and, after a year in the west, decided to return home.

Acquisition of Conner, according to Weir, promises to give the Cornhuskers of 1942 one of the great medley teams in the midwest, as Littler, Conner, Ginn and Brooks will be on hand to comprise a fast Nebraska quartet.

Red Cinders For Track.

Coach Weir was bubbling over with enthusiasm Wednesday over the discovery of a red cinder bed on Burlington railroad property east of Havelock, which means that the top covering which made the Nebraska stadium track outstanding in appearance in former years can be restored. Burlington officials have given the word that Weir and his staff may help themselves to the cinders and the work of topping the oval with its new dress is to be conducted during the present summer.

Gene Scorns Scheme Going Back In Ring

"Absurd," Gene commented on reports he was contemplating such a bout.

GENE TUNNEY.

"I gave up the ring 12 years ago and have no intention of ever returning to it in an active capacity," the former heavyweight champion said. A director of an aviation corporation, Tunney flew to Chicago after attending a board meeting here yesterday.

Tunney had no comment on Dempsey's "comeback" campaign against wrestlers.

"Jack and I are friends, but we don't meddle in each other's business," he remarked.

SOFTBALL LEAGUERS.

Behind Al Spadt's masterful two-hit pitching, Fords eked a 2 to 1 victory over Harringtons before more than 5,000 spectators at Muny field Tuesday evening.

The Fords bunched two hits off Curt Chubbuck and took advantage of a wild throw to do their scoring in the fifth after Chubbuck had tripled and scored Harringtons' sole tally. Holloway and Regler hit double when two were out for the winning markers. Score:

Tourney Dates Fixed For Legion Juniors

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Baseball fans—keep the dates Aug. 4, 5 and 6 open for the American Legion state tourney finals.

C. O. "Chip" Bowley, state Legion baseball chairman announced the dates for the round-robin play today, but said a site has not yet been chosen.

Four sub-state tourney winners will be selected from 16 district winners on July 28 and 29 at these possible sites: Fremont for one, McCook or North Platte for a second, York or Grand Island for a third and Neligh, West Point or Hartington for a third.

After the state senior title is decided, Bowley indicated the state midget tourney will be held. Fremont, Schuyler, Tecumseh, Pender, Hastings and Omaha teams have entered.

CARDS SET UP TRYOUT CAMP

School For Youngsters To Open Next Monday At Omaha.

OMAHA, July 17 — Three members of the present St. Louis Cardinal team are in the big leagues as a result of having attended tryout camps such as the one the Cardinal organization will open at Fontenelle park here next Monday, July 22.

In Cardinal Duds Now.

Last July's Cardinal tryout camp at Fontenelle park also launched several boys from this section upon professional baseball careers. Among the boys signed during last year's tryouts here who are making good in pro ball are George Kleine, local lad, now with Batesville of the Northeast Arkansas league; Ralph Scheef, Gretna, (Neb.), with Worthington (Minn.) of the Western league; Marlin Henderson, Macy (Neb.), and Rudolph Rundus, Belleville (Kans.), both with the Cooleemee club of the North Carolina State league. All four of these boys are pitchers.

Candidates Invited.

In the camp opening at Fontenelle park Monday, the Cardinal organization hopes to sign other young men of professional ability and extends an invitation to young players of this section between the ages of 17 and 23 to attend the camp for tryouts under the watchful eyes of veteran baseball scouts.

To receive tryouts, boys merely have to present themselves at Fontenelle park at 9 o'clock next Monday morning, bringing their shoes, gloves and uniforms. The only requirements are that out-of-town boys finance their own trips to Omaha and living expenses while here. Tryouts will entail a stay in Omaha of three or four days for out-of-town boys. Players signed to contracts in the camp will be refunded their expenses.

Dempseys Chummy, But Marriage Ties No Longer Binding

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—Big moving vans rolled up to the Jack Dempseys' door yesterday and made short work of the physical details of breaking up the home that Jack built.

Taking Only "Sticks."

"We're just taking the furniture we need—a few sticks, really," explained Hannah.

A baby grand piano was among the "few sticks" that were being carted off to the new apartment when reporters arrived to witness the final break-up of the Dempsey romance.

HANNAH.

If there was any heartbreak attached to the proceedings, which followed the signing of a formal separation agreement last week, Hannah wasn't displaying it.

She was gay as she explained plans to set up housekeeping for the youngsters, Joan, 6, and Barbara, 4.

To House In Jersey.

"After we get settled, the kids and I," she said, "we're going down to Deal, N. J., for the month of August. We've taken a little house there.

"Jack? Oh, he'll come down every week-end."

So he will, eh? And where will he stay?

"Why, he'll stay with us, of course," said Hannah.

Then things are still fairly chummy?

"Of course they are," Hannah insisted. "Things couldn't be better. As a matter of fact, this apartment we're moving into was Jack's own selection. He leased it months ago before all this happened. We would have moved anyway."

JACK.

Jack, in Chicago and booked for a busy summer touring schedule, can make his own announcement of future plans, she added.

"Maybe I'll return to the stage and maybe not. It isn't as important as people have made out," Hannah continued.

OMAHA CLUB SCENE NATIONAL TOURNEY

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Omaha Field club officials started preliminary work today to entertain the 1941 national amateur golf tourney on Johnny Goodman's home course.

The United States Golf association awarded the tourney to the field club yesterday. Dates will be set later.

No radical changes in the course are planned, officials indicated, but additional traps probably will be installed and the tees set back.

Boelus Bobs Up With Win Over Lawrence

HOLDREGE, Neb., July 17—Boelus edged out a 5 to 4 victory over Lawrence in the Nebraska semi-pro baseball tournament here Tuesday night. Lawrence jumped away to an early lead by pounding across three runs in the first inning. It took Boelus six innings to score five runs and Stacy came in to take over the mound duties when Lawrence threatened to tie the count in the last of the ninth. The score:

Early Stock Market Rally Attempt Fizzles

EXCHANGE UNABLE GET OUT OF RUT

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—The stock market dropped back into the doldrums today after an early attempt to resume an advance fizzled. When the rally maneuver struck a snag, traders who had bought on the upturn in the previous session hurried to lighten holdings. Gains of many issues changed into net declines of fractions to more than a point but some held part of the advantage to the finish.

Unable to get out of its rut, the market returned to a quiet drift, with dealings slackening as the rally played out. Transactions approximated 375,000 shares.

Down most of the session were United States steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Chrysler, Douglas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Loft, Western Union, American Can and Santa Fe.

J. I. Case spurted 2½ on a single transaction. Also higher most of the time were Allied Chemical, Consolidated Edison, Caterpillar, Union Carbide and U. S. Rubber.

In the curb, small gains were registered in Aluminum of America, Lake Shore Mines and New Jersey Zinc, offset by minor losses in Fairchild Engine, Humble Oil and Bath Iron Works.

A rise in bonds tapered into a narrow side-wise market. Commodities mostly sagged. Chicago wheat ended ⅜ to 1⅛ cents a bushel down. Corn was off ⅛ to up ⅛. Cotton futures in late trading were 5 to 20 cents a bale lower.

Overnight clarification of President Roosevelts third-term stand, some brokers said, apparently had little effect on market sentiment.

Expectations of further industrial expansion under stimulus of defense spending were widespread in financial quarters. But traders still were in suspense over the threatened nazi blow against England and the question what form the proposed federal excess profits tax would take.

Steel shares were among the first to give ground when the early rallying gesture played out, despite trade indications of sustained steel operations at a high level for some time to come. The "Iron Age" reported a slight tapering in new orders was believed to be temporary pending growth in requirements of the defense plans.

Oil shares were somewhat wobbly on news of cuts in crude oil prices in certain producing sections and talk that the price reductions might spread unless production is curtailed.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—An early try at higher prices by the rail group fizzled out in later bond dealings today.

Morning gains were cancelled or replaced with minor losses in many cases at the start of the last hour.

Receiving more favorable attention after a slow start were such issues as International Telephone 5s, Montana Power 3¾s, American & Foreign Power 5s and Commonwealth Edison Convertible 3½s.

Carriers pushed back included Nickel Plate 5½s, Illinois Central 4¾s and Erie 5s of '75.

U. S. governments slanted ahead for trifling gains.

Highlighting trade in the foreign list was a jump of nearly 10 points in French 7½s of '41. The advance was the first since the issue plunged to the year's low in the wake of the Franco-German truce. Argentine and Canadian issues also improved.

WHEAT LOWER ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—A drop of more than a cent in wheat prices today wiped out much of the advance scored yesterday and registered the market's reaction as a result of mild profit taking, hedging and selling based on overnight rains with promise of more in the spring wheat belt.

Government experts reported stem rust is expected to cause considerable damage in east-central Kansas but that damage in the soft wheat belt has been less than expected. Thatcher wheat in the spring belt has only a trace but moderately heavy infection has developed in the few fields of susceptible varieties in territory examined.

Wheat closed ⅜@1⅛ lower than yesterday, July 73⅞, September 74⅛@½; corn ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher, July 62¼@⅜, September 58⅝@¾; oats ⅛ off to ⅛c up.

With the official weather map showing overnight rainfall in Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana, reaching 1 22 inches at Fargo, wheat prices turned fractionally lower today, reacting from yesterday's two cents advance.

Helping to support the market at the fractional downturn, however, was buying apparently associated with some improved milling demand and prospects that the period of heaviest new crop movement in the southwest had now definitely passed although marketings in the soft wheat belt were expected to remain heavy for several days. Announcement that the government'sflour export subsidy program has been expanded to include flour shipped from all parts of the country to western hemisphere ports attracted some attention. Heretofore the program has involved only Pacific coast wheat to the orient and Europe and flour to the orient.

Not a bushel of grain has been delivered on July wheat and corn contracts as yet. These options will not be traded after July 23 and as of the close Monday more than 6,000,000 bushels of wheat and 2,000,000 bushels of corn were involved in contracts remaining to be settled by the end of the month.

Corn prices also were fractionally lower although July contracts which are priced more than 3 cents above September deliveries then held about steady. Offerings of corn to the country were light, oats and rye were about steady.

Lard also showed little change.

Bston Wool

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.) WOOL—Trading continued to be very restricted in the Boston wool market today. Many users were making no bids. The few bids received were largely below prevailing asking prices and were made to test the firmness of asking prices. Good French combing lengths fine territory wools in original bags were nominally quoted about steady at 80-83 cents for spot wools. Offerings of similar wools for August delivery were quoted at around 78 cents, scoured basis, delivered to users. Little interest was shown in these offerings.

Foreign Exxchange

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—The free British pound dropped another 8 cents today in addition to Tuesday's losses following the sharp runup at the start of the week.

Foreign money dealers said the relapse appeared due to uncertainty concerning theexact status of the free rate under latest London rulings establishing the official price as the only one at which exports can be paid.

The foreign exchange committee, meanwhile, said it would recommend to the local money market that when business in official sterling starts tomorrow it shall be on the basis of $4.02 buying, $4.04 selling. The Bank of England's range is $4 02½@4 03½. The free price is $3.76.

The Canadian dollar remained at 87⅝ U. S. cents. Late rates follow (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents.)

Canada:

Official Canadian control board rates for U. S. dollars: buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9 91 per cent, selling 9.09 per cent.

Canadian dollar in New York open market 12⅝ per cent discount, or 87.62½ U. S. cents.

Zoning Board May Report On Policy For Northeast Area

The zoning board will meet Thursday morning at the city hall. Hearings will be held on these applications:

H. C. Paeterson, 837 North Twenty-sixth street, residence A to B, 4-family dwelling and rooms for caretaker.

Margaret Wallace, 1638 J street, non-conforming remodel of dwelling.

Besides the recommendations that will be made on these requests, it is believed the board also will make a report to the council on zoning in the vicinity of the proposed new northeast high school. A letter from the board of education sets out that the school officials are not interested further than that there be no business zoning within two blocks of the site.

Two applications filed Wednesday were too late to be heard Thursday. Joseph H. Lytle asks for a renewal for one year of a permit to operate a print shop in a barn on his property. He adds that he would prefer a local business classification. The property is a residential A classification. Effie Carter has asked for a local business classification of residential property at 1137 Dawes street. She wants to run a restaurant.

Four Cars Damaged By Daylight Prowlers

Cars belonging to four employes of the Cushman Motor Works, 900 North Twenty-first, were damaged by prowlers between 8 and 10 a. m. Wednesday. The cars were parked in a shed behind the Cushman plant. Prowlers broke out some of the car windows, twisted door-handles off three autos, and made off wtih a tire. Those whose cars were damaged were: Lawrence Johnson, 3019 Starr, Siion Zadina, 917 Claremont; Ed Oakley, 2927 Starr and Charles Pick, Havelock. Four other cars in the shed were not touched. Lincoln police got busy right away and took some pictures of footprints at the scene.

McGaffin, Former Lincoln Reporter, Lands In London

William McGaffin, a former reporter for The Lincoln Star, now a member of the European staff of the Associated Press, was one of three newsmen who escaped from the continent to the British Isles this week.

It was a matter of nine hours flying from Lisbon to London, speeded up by priority orders from the British government. It usually takes two to three weeks of waiting to get a seat on the plane, and with the priority orders they had to wait four days.

Cars Looted

Grace B. Temple, 240 North Sixteenth, reported to police the theft of a storage battery from her car during the night.

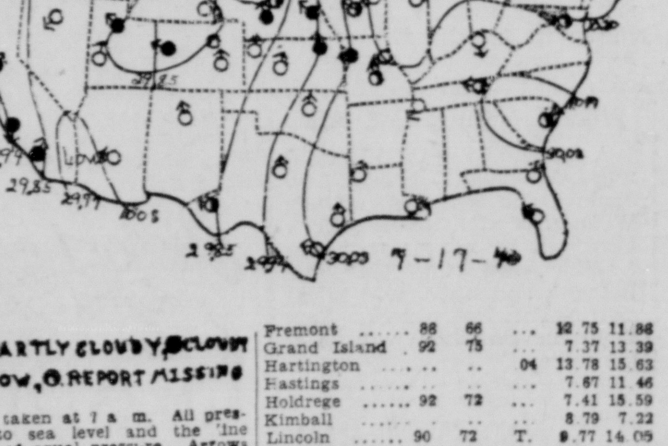

Mrs. Winnie Burcham, 644 North Twenty-fourth, reported her car had also been entered. A black leather purse, containing 30 cents, papers, and part of a book of food stamps was missing. The car was parked back of 2410 T street.

Police said another car was entered in the same vicinity, during the night, and a pair of gloves stolen.

Drive For Defense Is Progressing

$1,661,000,000 In Army And Navy Contracts In Last 40 Days Placed; Roosevelt Pleased

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—Working at a $40,000,000-a-day clip, the national defense commission has placed army and navy orders totalling $1,661,891,494 in the last 40 days.

The commission likewise reported far-flung progress in marshalling the nation's material resources, industrial facilities and manufacturing manpower for the mightiest peacetime defense undertaking in United States history.

President Roosevelt, releasing the first detailed reports of the commission's accomplishments to date, praised the record compiled and told his press conference yesterday that the progress was extremely good.

Mr. Roosevelt said he considered the reports of the seven commission members of greater importance than news from the democratic national convention. Asked why, he countered:

"Wouldn't you put the safety of the country ahead of anybody's convention?"

Broad Summary.

The reports, covering the six weeks the commission has been functioning, gave the following broad summary of the country's preparedness efforts:

MATERIALS (Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., in charge)—Substantial supplies of strategic and critical raw materials are being acquired. Completion of plans expected in the next few weeks for manufacture of enough synthetic rubber to meet most emergency needs. Arrangements under way both for substantial production increase in high test aircraft gasoline, and for its storage in strategic undergrcund bases. Plans also are in preparation to relieve the nation's dependence upon foreign smelters for its tin supply.

PRODUCTION (William S. Knudsen)—$1,390,575,405 in navy contracts and $271,316,089 in army contracts placed, covering a long list of diversified equipment and material. Progress made toward a solution, at least temporary, of the bottlenecks in the machine tool industry.

LABOR SUPPLY (Sidney Hillman)—Needs of private industry for skilled and other labor are being met. Between 30,000 and 40,000 enrolees receiving training for defense industry jobs. Several serious production stoppages in vital defense industries averted.

Committee Heads For Jaycees Named
